2 State Bill to Cut U. S. Tax Studied

Massachusetts residents would be saved at least $32,000,000 they now pay in federal income taxes each year if a bill to make the Commonwealth a community property state, filed in the Legislature by Reps. David Cleary (D.) of Charlestown, and Peter Jordan (R.) of Revere, is enacted.

The measure, providing that one-half a man's income from whatever source and half of all property acquired after marriage belongs to his wife, and that the husband likewise is entitled to half of income and property acquired by his wife, has been referred to the rules committee on the question of admission, as the time for filing new bills expired in January.

Reduced to simple terms, the bill, for federal tax purposes, would permit both husband and wife to file separate income tax returns, thus avoiding, in most cases, payment of the surtax. In addition to reducing the amount of federal income tax paid, Massachusetts' sponsors of the bill point out that it would strengthen the marriage bond by providing that the marriage partner prevented from earning income, would nevertheless receive an equitable share of income for services which help make marriage a success.

In a joint statement, Reps. Cleary and Jordan said:

"In all except the community property states, wives are considered, for tax purposes anyway, as dependents, no better legally than children. Under our bill, women will rank equally with men. This bill, we are sure will tend to strengthen the marriage bond."

"The advantage of making Massachusetts a community property state can be readily seen from the following figures:

The Federal tax bill of a couple with no dependents whose income is $4000 a year will drop from $389 to $456, a reduction of 23 per cent.

"That of a $5000 couple will drop from $798 to $608, a drop of 24 per cent."

SAVINGS MOUNT

"That of a $6000 couple from $1045 to $775, a reduction of 25.7 per cent."

"That of a $10,000 couple from $2185 to $1474, a reduction of 32 per cent."

"That of a $20,000 couple from $6393 to $3754, a reduction of 41 per cent."

"That of a $32,000 couple from $11,970 to $6832, a reduction of 42.7 per cent."

"That of a $50,000 couple from $24,795 to $14,979, a reduction of 39 per cent."

"That of a $100,000 couple from $63,127 to $40,219, a reduction of 36 per cent."

Cleary and Jordan pointed out that passage of their bill will in no way affect property now held separately by husband or wife. "All property of the husband, both real and personal, owned or claimed by him before marriage, or before the effective date of this act, whichever is later, and that acquired by gift, devise, or descent, or received as compensation for personal injury, shall be his separate property, and the same rule applies to the wife.

"Massachusetts is now seeking the means to raise additional revenue. Gov. Bradford's sales tax plan, lacking support in his own party, appears to be doomed."

"While we have taken no position on any plan to revise state income taxes, it is the opinion of tax experts that any citizen who can save from 20 to 42 per cent on his federal tax bill would not object to paying a slightly higher state income tax."

"In our opinion, making Massachusetts a community property state will help everybody and hurt nobody."

'Community Property' On Way in Pennsy

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 28 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Senate passed a bill permitting a husband and wife to split the family income in paying federal taxes—a move its sponsor said would save millions of dollars for Pennsylvanians.

Sen. John W. Lord, Jr., the sponsor, said the measure was patterned after "community property" acts in effect in several states.

After a spirited debate the Senate approved the measure, 35 to 14, sending it to the House.

May's Counsel Calls Marshall

Along with the former Army chief of staff, six members of Congress were summoned as character witnesses.

Mother's Gains May Shorten Truman Stay

GRANDVIEW, Mo., May 28 (AP)—The surprising new rally of President Truman's mother encouraged speculation today that Mr. Truman may consider an early return to Washington if the gain continues.

Little Mrs. Martha E. Truman, 94, was reported as still making progress last night.

More cheerful than he has been in several days, the President, returning to his Hotel Muehlebach suite in Kansas City last night, informed newsmen of his belief that there "really has been some improvement."

This personal opinion of the President coupled with optimistic reports from Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, the White House physician, gave rise to the speculation on the possibility of an early return of Mr. Truman to the Capital.

Mr. Truman worked until late last night on a batch of official mail flown him from Washington, and Presidential Press Sec. Ross said he had kept his work fairly well current while here.

The stream of optimistic reports was crowned by a late night report from Graham that Mrs. Truman was still making progress. She was resting comfortably shortly before midnight.

Lion Bites Trainer Trapped in Cage

DECATUR, Ga., May 28 (AP)—Ernest Enger, 57-year-old animal trainer of Springfield Gardens, N. Y., received several severe bites on the hips and legs last night when attacked by a lion during a performance of the Hippodrome Thrill Circus.

Enger, who lost an arm when attacked by a lion several years ago, received emergency treatment at a hospital and returned to the circus to take his bow.

The trainer was attacked immediately after entering the cage and was knocked to the floor when the beast sprang at him. Circus attendants, armed with heavy poles, beat the lion off while others entered the cage and carried Enger out.

WHEELER JOB OKAYED

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—The House passed and sent to President Truman legislation allowing former Sen. Burton K. Wheeler to serve as special counsel for the Senate war investigating committee without giving up his private law practice.

The prisoners followed it to the gallows the 22 other guards at the infamous Mauthausen Concentration Camp who were executed yesterday, ringing down the curtain on the greatest legal hangings of all time.

One of the original 27 slated to die today, Otto Striegel, obtained a last-minute reprieve from American Military Gov. Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Informed of the reprieve, Striegel defiantly demanded to know why he was not being hanged with his comrades.

It took three hours and 29 minutes to efface the 26 men labeled by prosecutors as "monsters and mass murderers," who had been accused of incredible bestialities and the utmost refinement of tortures in their operation of the horror camp.

The prisoners were marched out into the courtyard one by one at intervals of 15 minutes.

Each was flanked by GI guards, a prison official, an interpreter and a German chaplain.

All had glassy eyes and showed little emotion beyond mumbling little prayers through trembling lips.

Some had boasted they would "laugh it off," but not one of them did.

One of the culprits, a hulking 31-year-old gangster named Willy Frey, staged a weird exhibition in his cell last night.

He sang at the top of his lungs, "Give Me Five Minutes More," and said that when the time came for the gallows he would render "Open the Door, Richard," and added:

"I'll drag one of the guards down with me—maybe two."

But when he was led out to the black-draped scaffold in the yard of the grim old prison where Hitler once was held for six months his recourse was to prayer and not to insolent singing.

An interpreter asked him if he wished to make a final statement. Frey simply shook his head and a few seconds later the chaplain's "amen" coincided with the dull thud of the gallows' trap door.

Directed Verdict For Russ Denied

By TOM RILEY and JAMES J. DELANEY

PLYMOUTH, May 28—Presentation of all evidence, both by the state and defense, was completed in superior court at 10:20 today in the trial of Charles Russell Goodale, charged with the murder of Ruth McGurk last July 27.

After both Dist. Atty. Edmund R. Dewing and Defense Atty. Herbert F. Callahan had rested their cases, Callahan offered two motions for a directed verdict of not guilty. Both were denied by Judge Lewis Goldberg.

One motion asked the judge to direct a verdict of not guilty based on all the evidence in the case. The other asked a similar verdict based on the question of jurisdiction, with the defense contending there was insufficient evidence offered to prove that the young Cambridge girl was slain in Plymouth County. The defense also submitted a request to the court for instructions to the jury in his charge. This was taken under advisement. And after a brief recess, Atty. Callahan notified Judge Goldberg he was ready to begin his summation of the defense case to the jury.

Callahan began what he estimated would be a two-hour argument to the jury shortly before 11 a. m. He opened with a plea for the jurors to render "a just verdict."

Dist. Atty. Dewing will sum up the state case this afternoon, and court officials said it was most likely that Judge Goldberg would defer his charge until tomorrow morning, after which the case immediately goes to the jury.

Before the defense rested today, it called to the stand five rebuttal witnesses to testify that Clarence C. Goodale, the defendant's father, attended a night baseball game in Wareham on July 27. Mrs. Ida Goodale, the defendant's mother, had testified she went to the game that night with her husband, but in attacking the credibility of the mother's father, State Police Lt. Gerald McCarthy had testified that Goodale, Sr., told him he worked at the Raynham Dog Track that night. Records of the track payroll for that week, showing Goodale, Sr., was paid for working that night, also were produced in court.

All five defense witnesses today corroborated the story of Goodale's parents that they went to the baseball game between the House of David and the Wareham Town team, which was played under lights.

The witnesses, all of whom told either of seeing or talking with Goodale, Sr., at the ball game that night, were Mrs. Comalen Castaldo of Wareham, her husband, Alidoro, one of the umpires at the game; Bert Maloney of Globe ave. Wareham, who said he sat one seat away from Mr. Goodale; Herman Bean of Onset and John B. Brennan, a Wareham postal clerk.

At the close of presentation of testimony, Dist. Atty. Dewing offered a facsimile of the dress Ruth McGurk wore to the dance the night she kept her date with death, to be marked as an exhibit for the jury. Callahan objected, but the court ruled that the dress could be admitted because the slain girl's two vacation girl chums had identified it as "similar in style and color" to the dress worn by the murder victim.

Dewing hit hard yesterday in combatting the mother's story that the defendant arrived home around midnight. The defense struck back too, putting on the defendant's father.

The elder Goodale corroborated his wife's story, but to clinch it the defense feels it must convince the jury he was at the ball game with

Boy, 16, Who Slew 4 Pals to See How It Felt, Baffles Cops, Doctors

LAPEER, Mich., May 28 (AP)—The fantastic story of a 16-year-old farm youth who admitted killing four playmates "because I wondered what it would feel like to put a bullet through a human being" was scheduled for court hearing today.

Oliver Terpening, Jr., a slim, stolid youth, is charged with the flower patch murder Monday of Barbara Smith, 16, his farm neighbor at Inlay City, 20 miles from here.

State Police Commr. Don S. Leonard said the boy also admitted killing Stanley Smith, her 14-year-old brother and his best chum and her sisters, Gladys, 12, and Janet, 2.

Captured in Toledo over the Ohio state border and returned yesterday to Michigan after a night of evading authorities, Terpening waited quietly in his jail cell here while Prosecutor Leslie Smith of Lapeer County went before Probate Judge Glenn C. Holtenbeck to seek a waiver of jurisdiction over the minor prisoner.

Then, Smith said, young Oliver was to appear before Justice of the Peace Robert H. Perkins.

If Oliver waives examination, his appearance in circuit court before Judge George W. Desjardins will be delayed at least until Monday.

Prosecutor Smith explained that "he's a minor, and we're afraid of that Supreme Court decision"—a recent ruling holding that extreme speed in trial and sentencing may limit justice.

Complete bewilderment over the brutal slayings came yesterday from the youth himself, his father, parents of the victims and even the medical examiner who questioned Oliver at East Lansing before the boy was brought to the Lapeer jail.

"I don't know; I just don't know why I did it," Leonard quoted Oliver as saying, and Dr. Le Moyne Snyder, State Police medico-legal expert, who questioned him, could add only his exclamation, "I wish to God I knew what was wrong with him."

In composed, courteous tones, Oliver told the story of the killing, Leonard said.

The officer said he related calmly how he fired first at Stanley with the .22 caliber rifle he had been using to shoot frogs. A few minutes later he turned it on the three girls as they picked flowers, shooting the toddler because "she was old enough to talk," the officer quoted him as saying.

Oliver faltered and dropped his dark, close-cropped head as his hands when Leonard asked him if he wanted to attend the funeral of his "girl friend," Barbara, and her brother and two sisters.

"No, I never want to see them again," young Terpening said with tears in his eyes. "I would be afraid to face their family."

William B. Smith, 67-year-old father of the young victims, said he bore no hatred for the boy.

Girl Attack Suspect Saved From R. I. Mob

PROVIDENCE, May 28—Rescued from an infuriated mob, a 26-year-old, Manchester, N. H., hotel worker faced court here today charged with attacking a 9-year-old girl, one of a group of youngsters who was fed candy and soda pop and then lured into a doorway.

Maurice P. Tessier, a visitor here for the past three months, was captured after a chase of more than a mile and was saved from an angry throng of 250 men and women only after police with nightsticks had beaten off repeated attacks.

Tessier, a hotel dishwasher, had joined a group of youngsters in Hospital st., playing games and treating them at a nearby store.

His actions were observed by Mrs. Delvina Davis, who called her brother, Irving Martin, 26, when she saw the stranger go into a doorway with a youngster.

The brother and sister surprised the stranger in the hallway. After a battle he fled, with neighbors and police joining a chase through backyards and over fences.

It was when Tessier was brought back to Hospital st., that the growing throng became unruly, shouting, "lynch him. Don't let the cops have him."

Patrolman John L. Eddy pushed his prisoner into a cruiser car and then swung his club until a squad of officers arrived to disperse the mob.

Police said Tessier signed a confession.

Texas City Blast Laid to Carelessness

WASHINGTON, May 28 (INS)—Ignorance and carelessness in the handling of dangerous ammonium nitrate were blamed today for the fire and explosions which virtually wiped out Texas City on April 16.

A preliminary report of the Coast Guard board of investigation particularly stressed the condoning of smoking on a ship being loaded with the explosive fertilizer.

The report contained the following points:

1—Smoking had occurred during the loading of the Grandcamp, the French-owned vessel whose explosion set off the chain of ship and factory explosions.

2—Broken or torn bags of ammonium nitrate were not repaired but were stored in the hold in violation of Coast Guard regulations governing explosives.

3—The shipper, contrary to rules, did not give "written notification in advance to the vessel regarding the characteristics of a dangerous cargo being shipped."

Through the generosity of the late Henry Ford's family, the famed Wayside Inn Boys' School at South Sudbury has been turned over as a gift to form a nucleus of a new type of school in Massachusetts, to aid children from broken homes and combat juvenile delinquency, it was announced today.

Full use of the property has been given to the Bay State Schools, a nonprofit charitable organization which plans 10 similar establishments dedicated to helping boys and girls handicapped by home environment.

Official notice of the school's inception was given when Gov. Bradford handed Arthur T. Lyman, president of Bay State Schools, a letter from Benson Ford, president of the Wayside Inn Corp., granting use of the South Sudbury property.

Slain Mother's Ghost Sits at Trial With Overell Girl

By ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS,

Special to the Boston Evening American

SANTA ANA, Cal., May 28—Bud Gollum's mother came to sit beside him in the courtroom, in the seat usually occupied by his guard. For the few minutes of the recess she was there, very slight against his bulk, very delicate in contrast to the girl on his other side, grey-haired, weary, still smiling and patting his arm.

The chair, bright yellow fumed oak, on the other side of Beulah Louise Overell was vacant.

To yourself, you said, "But—what THAT girl needs is a mother."

"Somebody to tell her not to sit there like an insensitive lump, somebody to tell her not to dress her hair in rigid, marcelled waves like a woman of 30."

"Louise, it's pouring rain outside, it's cold and miserable, you are in a courtroom, charged by the grand jury of Orange County with a murder."

You ought not to sit there in a bright, striped, blue-green dress with your arms bare to the shoulder.

"The other women are wearing suits, dark-colored, and you know what's proper, Louise, and your arms aren't your best point; they're heavy at the top—they look too strong."

While Judge Morrison told prospective jurors over and over that Miss Overell was under 18 when the murder of her parents, with which she is charged, took place and therefore not subject to the death penalty as the man beside her is, you kept thinking her mother ought to be there to make her do those things.

Then you remembered, you remembered why...

Memory jerks you upright, you fight it off. Everybody in this courtroom all day long fights off that memory. Nobody wants to think about it, nobody wants to believe it.

You make yourself think of other things. That Bud Gollum wrote to her: "What is this about your hair? I don't want you to dye your hair. Only bad women, movie stars, dye their hair. If you dye yours, I will cut it off and lock you up."

He wrote her that in jail, but the heavy hair so close beside him in their joint trial is hennaed just the same.

IN TEARS—Some dozen senators' wives took over the kitchen of Sen. and Mrs. Robert A. Taft to prepare a meal for 60 Spanish students in Washington. Mrs. Leverett Saltstall broke out in tears... not over displeasure, but she had lost of peeling onions.

You make yourself follow Defense Counsel Z. B. West as he drives home to each prospective juror the presumption of innocence under which Louise Overell must be tried.

The vacant chair beside Louise Overell yanks you back.

The gray day presses in, unreasonable and depressing. The dull orange-green lights of the quaint old courtroom, shift, dim and flare a little with the wind and rain outside. For a moment Bud Gollum's blond head looks bald, he looks like a tired business man.

The lights form strange shadows. It must be that.

There isn't anybody in that vacant chair beside Louise Overell. I know that. Of course, I know it. Everybody knows it.

But even if the last thing Beulah Jungquist Overell ever saw in this world was the unbelievable horror of her only child's heavy face turned upon her in "murderous hatred, she would still, I suppose, come to sit in that vacant chair, if she could.

If that was her final moment of life on this earth, as the people of the State of California will try to prove in this very courtroom, the child she had borne, nursed, taken to her first day at school, with a hammer lifted to smash anything that stood in her way, she would still be in that chair, she would find in her heart somehow that forgiveness which has to be divine.

Justice. Mercy. None of these things do we need as yet. In the gray unhappiness of this tragedy, you begin to ask only the light of truth.

"Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long"—If Louise Overell broke the second commandment as she, in her own handwriting, admits she broke the seventh, for the sake of other fathers and mothers and children, her days of freedom cannot be long.

R. I. Governor Signs Direct Primary Bill

PROVIDENCE, May 28—A direct primary bill, to take effect in the 1948 elections, was signed by Gov. John O. Pastore, leaving Connecticut the sole state in the nation still clinging to the convention method of nominating state office candidates.

The measure was passed in the Senate by a 36 to 4 roll call vote.

Andrews Divorce Battle Resumes

Hearing of the cross divorce complaints of Robert O. Andrews, Natick High School teacher-coach, and his attractive wife, Irene, continued today in Middlesex Probate Court, following testimony by Andrews that his wife had told him Rep. Norman S. Baxter of Medford meant everything to her.

"She called me a stinker for the way I talked about her Norman," Andrews testified. He had previously testified he still loved his wife. He is seeking a divorce on desertion grounds.

Judge George M. Poland ruled Mrs. Andrews had failed to prove her husband was guilty of excessive use of liquor. He did not rule on Mrs. Andrews' second allegation.

The judge's decision came after Mrs. Andrews had testified in her divorce libel. The court had pre-

Memorial Day Observances Shaped for Hub's Hero Dead

Programs for honoring the war dead in Friday's Memorial Day observance by all veterans' organizations in Greater Boston were nearing completion today. Impressive ceremonies will include special church services, processions, eulogies and a decoration of graves in all cemeteries, and sounding of taps over burial plots.

MOTHER'S LITTLE HELPERS—When a bus strike cut off the income of her husband, a bus driver, Mrs. Arnold Krause opened a hamburger shop in her home in Des Plaines, Ill. Her 5-year-old triplet sons, Tom, Dick and Harry (l. to r.), line up to help mother dry the dishes.

Two years ago the tall, heavy-set veteran called the state's first one-man G. A. R. convention in his bedroom and elected himself commander. In March the Sons of Union Veterans held their 65th annual encampment in Springfield in his honor.

In Boston's cemeteries alone, more than 10,000 graves of veterans of all wars will be visited and appropriately marked with small American flags and wreaths. The same type of flag will be used to decorate graves of hero dead throughout the New England states as part of the national observance.

Highlighting exercises in Newton, U. S. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, himself a veteran of World War I and whose son Peter made the supreme sacrifice in World War II, will lead a parade jointly sponsored by all of the city's veteran groups. The procession will proceed to Dickerson High School Stadium for service in which clergymen of all faiths will take part.

The annual Elks Decoration Day exercises will be held at Elks Rest, Mount Hope Cemetery, Walk Hill st., Forest Hills, at 2 p. m. Harold Russell, handless veteran of World War II, former paratrooper sergeant and Academy Award winner for his performance in the film, "The Best Years of Our Lives," will deliver the Elks memorial address. The procession will be led by Holy Name Band of West Roxbury.

Army Colonel Jap Theft Case Up for Decision

Advertising Called Bar To Depression Threat

Top advertising men of the nation went into windup sessions of the 43d annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America here today after decrying "fair weather" advertisers who operate only when business is good and pull into their shells when bad times come.

At least two nationally known speakers declared that advertising can play a big part in preventing a depression and that when business slows down it is the time to advertise all the more.

"If businessmen believe that advertising cultivates business in ordinary times they should understand it is all the more valuable when business starts to slump," declared Forrest U. Webster, president of Industrial Marketers of Detroit.

"In a depression the man who is out selling will get the business and the man who continues to advertise will continue to sell. This is a lesson that industrial advertisers must learn."

Dr. Charles M. Edwards, Jr., dean of the School of Retailing of New York University, declared America is heading straight into a depression and that advertising is the one way out of the forestall it.

"The handwriting is on the wall, gentlemen," he told a Hotel Statler audience.

"Choose whatever term you wish. Call it readjustment, recession or depression. It all adds up to the same thing. We are headed into a period of serious difficulties unless we take positive steps immediately—including constructive, hard-hitting advertising—to stem the tide of declining sales and profits.

"I fear that we don't have the 'know-how' to make fully effective use of advertising as a sales-building force."

Elon G. Borden, president and general manager of the federation, presided at a fellowship breakfast today and later headed the final conference on direct advertising.

Alleged Steel Racket Figure To Testify

WASHINGTON, May 28—James Boyle, named before a Senate subcommittee as a "gangster-type" New York gun-toter, was to be a surprise witness today at hearings on a purported giant gray market in steel, committee attaches said.

Committee employees received a long-distance telephone message from Boyle today asking permission to give his version of a dramatic episode in New York's swank Hampshire House during negotiations for 300,000 tons of the scarce metal.

E. A. Kerschbaumer, Pittsburgh steel broker, has testified that Boyle and two other armed men demanded steel—"or else"—after invading his hotel suite, and that L. C. Durham, Chicago manufacturer and ex-Marine sergeant, fortunately arrived and took their guns away.

Boyle, who is connected with the United Nations Trading Co., New York, was reported infuriated by accounts of Kerschbaumer's testimony. He was told his presence at today's hearing would be welcome.

The committee is even more eager to obtain the presence of Herbert M. Karp, New York attorney who they say has been dodging their subpoena servers for a week.

Karp is wanted because of allegations made by both Kerschbaumer and Durham that he acted as a go-between during weeks of dickering for the huge steel order.

It was Karp, they said, who assured them he had a commitment for delivery of 248,000 tons of steel from the Firth-Sterling Steel Co., of McKeesport, Pa., which Firth-Sterling officials say just isn't so.

The steel company was to be represented by Gerald Firth, president; A. R. Zapp, a division manager; M. A. Nernberg, handwriting expert, and George M. Pennington, described as a public relations expert.

Blue Law Upholds N. Y. Transit Slowdown

NEW YORK, May 28 (INS).—A Blue Law forbidding New York subways to operate at more than ten miles an hour was rigidly enforced on the independent system.

The CIO Transport Workers Union started the slowdown to force the board of transportation to alter its labor policies, while city councilman Michael Quill, union president, threatened a crippling strike on all three subway lines unless the O'Dwyer-Davis labor relations plan is adopted.

her, and by implication that the events later in the evening followed the course she described. With this added testimony—technically known as rebutting the state's rebuttal—final arguments by opposing attorneys cannot be finished until tonight.

Even before these summations of testimony begin, Atty. Callahan is to make a motion that Judge Lewis Goldberg direct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

Then after closing arguments, Judge Goldberg must charge the jury. He will not do so until tomorrow. The case therefore will not go to the jury until about tomorrow noon.

If a verdict is not reported tomorrow, it can be returned on the holiday, Friday.

The concluding testimony could take longer than expected, and Callahan intends to submit requests for rulings which Judge Goldberg must consider before addressing the jurors.

If Judge Goldberg cannot reach his charge before tomorrow night, he might have to postpone it until Saturday. Regular sessions of court cannot be held on a legal holiday. However, he is studying the law to determine whether, if necessary, he can address the jury Friday.

Mrs. Goodale broke down in the middle of direct examination by Callahan and as she closed her eyes and away, grasping the rail of the witness stand to steady herself, Judge Goldberg asked her if she wanted to rest.

"Yes, I think so," she said in a weak voice.

As her recital reached the events of July 27, 1946, Mrs. Goodale told the jury:

"My husband and I went fishing that afternoon. I had on a bathing suit and I got covered with sunburn."

That evening she said they went to the ball game and arrived back in Onset about 10:45. Just before the drugstore closed, she got the sunburn lotion. Her husband accompanied her to the drugstore and home again, but then went out.

"I heard Russell come in shortly after 12," she said. "I was in my bedroom on the first floor and called out and asked who it was. Russell said it was he."

"I heard him around the icebox in the kitchen. I finally asked him to come and apply noxema to my back, so he did."

"He remained with me quite a while, we were talking about the night game, the House of David team with the whiskers and so on. I should say it was one o'clock when he went upstairs to bed. My husband had not returned."

She corroborated her son's tes-

DAINTIES FOR RUSS

PLYMOUTH, May 28 — Charles Russell Goodale gets a few dainty pastries to add to his jail fare each day at noon. The cook, of course, is his mother.

The defendant's lunch is brought in a basket from the jail but Mrs. Goodale sits with her son in an ante room and keeps him company. Each day, she has a little brown bag that holds cake, pie or cookies.

timony about events on the days following. Then she declared that Francis Gallagher of Dorchester, who spent several weekends as a roomer in her house, informed her he had told police that Russell's girl at the dance of the murder night wore a brown or tan jacket.

Gallagher had testified Goodale's companion was dressed just like Ruth McGurk, who wore a pink dress and no coat or jacket.

She said that she knew Natalie Bolles Nickerson, the young bride who in court accused Goodale, her former sweetheart, of trying to choke her. She said that Virginia Kastyna of Brockton, another witness for the state, formerly worked with Natalie at the White Rabbit.

"Mrs. Goodale," said Callahan. "When Russell came into the house late on the night of July 27, did he appear nervous or agitated in any way?"

"No, he didn't," said Mrs. Goodale.

"While you talked with him, you say for half an hour that night, was his appearance in any way out of the ordinary?"

"No, just as usual."

"I guess that's all," said Callahan.

The district attorney in beginning cross-examination of the defendant's mother, prefaced his questions with:

"I am sorry but I have got to ask you a few questions."

Mrs. Goodale then confirmed her son's story that he felt a little sick from liquor. This had been his explanation to police as to why he was not interested in prolonging his evening with his John companion but dropped her in Onset sq. around midnight.

Under cross-examination Mrs. Goodale did not change her story or contradict her son's.

The district attorney's first rebuttal witness was Miss Doris John of Harrison Way, South Boston, who said she and her sister took a room at the Goodale house on the much-discussed week-end last July.

The two girls became friendly with four Boston young men, including Francis Gallagher, who were also lodging there. She met the defendant.

At the Onset Casino ballroom Miss John testified she saw Goodale but he was alone. At one or one-fifteen in the morning she was putting up her hair in the upstairs bathroom at the head of the rear stairs. Edward Shea of Roxbury was in the bathroom doorway, watching her and "holding my bobby pins."

"Did you see the defendant?" asked Dewing.

"I did."

"At what time?"

"I would say about one-fifteen or one thirty."

"Did you speak to him?"

"I did."

"Did he reply?"

"He did not."

"What did you say?"
"I said hello, you have come from the dance. He went into his room."

Under cross-examination Miss John said she saw Goodale as he came up the stairs and admitted his room was right at the head of the stairs. She was between her and Goodale.

Singer Billie Holiday Jailed as Dope Victim

PHILADELPHIA, May 28 (AP)—Billie Holiday, 28, blues singer, was on her way to a federal institution today as the aftermath of a sordid tale of narcotics addiction unfolded in U. S. district court.

The singer, who sobbingly testified she guessed her earnings last year were between $40,000 and $50,000, was sentenced to the federal reformatory for women at Alderson, W. Va., on a criminal information filed by Assistant Atty. Joseph Hildenberger.

Hildenberger declared, however, that Miss Holiday was the victim of the "worst type of parasite you can imagine."

"They followed her around," Hildenberger told Judge J. Cullen Ganey, "and charged her $100 for dosages of narcotics that cost ordinary users only $5 to $10."

"She made a quarter of a million dollars in the last three years and all of it is gone."

The tall, slender Negro singer was going to give her benevolent treatment at the reformatory. In return, the jurist said, Miss Holiday must co-operate to the fullest extent with federal agents in their efforts to track down the source of the heroin supply and a day, that the government she was receiving.

$1,400,000 to Jobless In Week Sets Record

The State Division of Employment Security reported to-day checks sent to 66,000 unemployed last week totaled $1,400,000, highest in the agency's 10-year history.

The record for the number of checks sent out was set in June, 1940, when the division disbursed 109,940 in one week. Division Director Robert E. Marshall explained last week's record payment as due to an increase in wages and in the maximum weekly benefit rate.

So far this year $20,968,827 have been paid out to unemployed under the state law. Unemployed veterans receiving payments under the GI bill have been paid $17,439,992, a total of $38,408,819.

Girls' Plea for Rifle Permit Puts Bang in Bridal Petition

Miss Joan Smith, 24, of Otis pl., Back Bay, today was all set for a June wedding to Thomas W. Zelby, 26, an MIT student, after an episode that had Cambridge officials curious and puzzled.

The attractive Back Bay girl applied for a marriage license at the office of Frederick H. Burke, Cambridge city clerk, and in the same breath requested a permit to carry a rifle.

The marriage license was provided all right, but the matter of the rifle was one for the police. So Joan stepped over to police headquarters in nearby Central sq. and repeated her request.

Sgt. John Granby wanted some particulars and the bride-to-be furnished them speedily.

"What's all the fuss about?" she asked. "I just want a rifle license. My husband-to-be and I are both hunting enthusiasts and we like target practice. That's all there is to it."

The sergeant then explained that it is not necessary to get a police permit to carry a rifle for such purpose. But he warned that the serial number of all such weapons must be reported to the state dept. of public safety.

Truman Sponsors Arctic Plan As Defense Against Russia

By RAY RICHARDS
 Boston Evening American

Nearly DOUBLE Protection for Blue Shield members

The new plan will include Medical care in the hospital
 PLUS Surgical and Maternity care wherever you may be.
 Membership available to every resident of Massachusetts.

With the addition of these important new benefits, the value of Blue Shield protection is nearly doubled.

At present, Blue Shield pays your physician for:

- Surgical care, in the hospital only
- Maternity care, in the hospital only
- Related X-rays up to $15
- Anesthetics
- Related endoscopic examinations

Effective June 1st, Blue Shield adds the following new benefits, at only slightly higher rates:

- Medical care (for arthritis, diabetes, etc.) in the hospital
- Surgical care out of the hospital
- Maternity care out of the hospital

Here are the reasons why Blue Shield can nearly double its protection to you at such moderate rates:

1. Co-operation of Physicians
 Blue Shield has the co-operation of over 6,000 physicians—90% of all active physicians in Massachusetts. This co-operation is real. It means that physicians have voluntarily given up some of their privileges in order to make this plan possible.

For Example: If your annual family income is less than $3,000 ($2,000 for a single person and $2,500 for a member and one dependent), Blue Shield physicians will accept the Blue Shield fee as payment in full for services covered by your membership. This applies except when the cost of X-rays exceeds $15, or when a specialist in obstetrics is engaged.

If your income is more than the above amounts, Blue Shield pays its fees (some of which have been increased) toward your physician's bill. You pay the balance, if any.

2. Blue Shield Is Non-profit
 Incorporated in the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts as a non-profit, benevolent organization, Blue Shield has no motive except service to its members. Blue Shield is a co-operative whose members create a fund for their own use when they need a physician's care. Thus Blue Shield can consistently give greater benefits at lower cost.

3. Blue Shield is operated with Blue Cross
 This reduces the overhead of both plans, and makes possible additional savings which are returned to members in the form of greater benefits.

New rates for greatly increased benefits
 The individual will pay $90 a month, and the family (including husband and wife, or husband, wife and unmarried children under 19) will pay only $2.25 a month for this increased protection.

Enrollment open to all residents
 With over 600,000 members, and after four years of successful experience, Blue Shield is able to liberalize enrollment regulations. Membership is now available to every resident of Massachusetts through one of the following methods of enrollment:

1. If you (either husband or wife) work where 5 or more are employed, you may join Blue Shield only through your place of employment, with your membership dues being paid to Blue Shield through your company by payroll deduction.
2. If you (both husband and wife) work where there are less than 5 employed, or are retired or unemployed, you may join Blue Shield during special Community Enrollment periods which are scheduled throughout Massachusetts.
3. If you work where a Blue Cross group exists, it will be an easy matter for your employer to arrange to form a Blue Shield group.
4. If you are now a Blue Cross member and pay your dues directly to the Blue Cross office, and you are not employed where 5 or more work, you will be offered an opportunity to join Blue Shield early next fall. You may also join Blue Shield through Community Enrollment.

BLUE SHIELD

Have Blue Cross Protection, too!
 Blue Cross and Blue Shield are separate organizations, working together. Blue Cross pays hospital bills. Blue Shield pays physicians' bills. Your family needs both!

MORE Benefits for greater needs... Are you and yours protected?

Social Medicine Propaganda Flayed

By KENT HUNTER

WASHINGTON, May 28—Government agencies use $75,000,000 a year for propaganda from funds appropriated for their operation, Rep. Forest A. Harness of Indiana, charged. "Starting Thursday afternoon at 2 p. m. we're going to find out if they have violated Section 201, title 18 of the U. S. Criminal Code," Harness said.

"The specific instance on which the investigation will start has to do with a flood of letters, telegrams, radio broadcasts, newspaper advertisements and other advertising media on behalf of the socialized medicine legislation now before Congress.

"Preliminary investigation shows that the United States Public Health Service, the Federal Security Agency and the Dept. of Agriculture have been very active during the last three months advocating compulsory health insurance.

"Officials of these agencies bring different groups together, map out regional health programs—all on a basis of socialized medicine and compulsory federal insurance sustained by payroll deductions.

"Our investigation thus far, in the general accounting office, indicates propaganda activities are disguised by auditing subterfuges. "If criminality is involved the committee intends to find out about it and recommend action by the Dept. of Justice.

Harness said the committee has a complete record of a meeting in Jamestown, N. Dak., last September, managed and directed by officials from the Farm Security Administration, the Office of Education, the U. S. Public Health Service and other federal payrollers.

"The avowed purpose of this conference was to train participants in ways and means for agitation for socialized medicine; to bring pressure on Congress for a national health program based on compulsory health insurance," Harness said.

AUSSIES BID FOR EX-GIS

CANBERRA, Australia, May 28 (AP)—Immigration Minister Arthur Calwell said the cabinet had adopted an immigration plan providing for contributions to fares of former American servicemen desiring to settle in Australia.

IN JULY, 1945,
THE NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGE SAID:

PLEASE DO THIS—get out your Series "E" War Bonds and check them with the chart at the right. Then you will understand why we urge:

"Hold the 'E' bonds you already have
...you can't afford to cash them in."

TODAY THIS ADVICE IS TWO YEARS STRONGER!

The "E" bonds you bought during the war have not only increased in value, but the rate of increase has stepped up too!

As the chart shows, the increase in value of an "E" bond is greatest in the later years of the bond's life. (White bars represent $75 original investment on an "E" bond of $100 face value—the black bars show the increase in value by years over this original amount.)

Note how the rate of increase goes up in the second three years—and goes up again even more sharply in the final four years! This is why the Exchange advises you to put your bonds away until they reach their full value.

The bonds of our Government are the only securities this Exchange has ever recommended in the 135 years of its existence. We urge you: Save the easy way, through the Payroll Savings Plan or the new Bond-a-Month Plan. The Series "E" Savings Bonds you put away today offer the same return on your investment, the same safety, as the War Bonds you bought during the war years. You can buy them with certainty...hold them with confidence.

Pastor, Wife, Daughter, 16, Badly Beaten

GROTON, Ct., May 28 (AP)—A 55-year-old clergyman, his wife and their 16-year-old daughter were critically injured in their home early today when beaten with a heavy furnace shaker. Police immediately broadcast an alarm for a former Navy boxer.

Injured were Rev. Nicholas Shepler and his daughter Evelyn, whose names were put on the danger list at the Lawrence and Associated Memorial Hospital in adjacent New London. The minister's wife Mrs. Flora B. Shepler, 50, also was taken to the hospital where her injuries were described as "less serious."

State Police from the Groton barracks broadcast an alarm bearing the name of Cedric Carpenter, Jr., 27, of near-by Mystic. State Police said the elder Shepler were attacked first and their daughter was beaten as she screamed for help from a window.

Motive for the attack was not explained.

Radio Actress Love Suicide

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—A 21-year-old re-hired radio actress, Twila Phillips, was found dead in the gas-filled Manhattan apartment of a radio announcer when he returned home late last night, police said.

"I never really knew you loved me. I loved you very much," read a pencilled note which police said the girl had written. "The note also said she had been depressed lately."

Police quoted Charles Richard Stark, the announcer, as saying Miss Phillips appeared in good spirits when he last saw her at the apartment.

Defense Set for Trial Of Bertha Cote June 16

BROCKTON, May 28—Counsel for Mrs. Bertha S. Cote, 28, charged by the state with the bludgeon murder of her husband, Rene, announced today the defense is fully prepared to go to trial June 16, at Plymouth County court house.

Atty. Eben S. Townes disclosed that the defense is confident its presentation of evidence will clear the accused woman. He said today, "It looks good to us."

It was also disclosed that Asst. City Engineer Earle C. Allen had made a survey of the area where the murder was committed and had completed plans of that section of the city to be used in identifying houses and streets.

Mrs. Cote will go to trial before Judge Felix Forte and a jury on the charge she killed her husband two days after Christmas last year in the living room of their apartment.

The defendant was arrested in a dramatic scene at Brockton court after Walter Steele, auto mechanic, had been arrested and charged with the crime. In court Steele was released and Mrs. Cote was arrested, charged with the crime and later indicted.

Red Envoy to Britain Summoned to Moscow

LONDON, May 28 (AP)—Informed diplomatic sources in touch with the Russian embassy reported today that Georgi Zarubin, Soviet ambassador to Britain, has been summoned back to Moscow for consultations.

The purpose of Zarubin's reported departure was not at once ascertainable, but Whitehall observers recalled that Russia notified Britain late last week she was ready to begin discussions on the future of Italy's pre-war colonial empire.

Babies are a family's greatest blessing.

They are also expensive—when you consider the cost of raising a youngster through the years from crib to college. But you can meet that expense if you plan for it.

If you're expecting a baby, your first move after seeing the doctor should be to go right down to a Mutual Savings Bank and open a savings account. Put something into it regularly for the child's later education, and for unforeseen emergencies. As you do this, you'll also find more money in your pocket to meet daily living expenses, because you'll be getting the habit of planning your spending.

HERE you see — in one sleek and tidy package — all the things it takes to make the style-setter and the standout performer of the year.

One eye-filling glance will tell you that here's the clean-lined beauty and hint-of-tomorrow look that will cue the trend of car design for many seasons to come.

But just wait till you get this beauty in motion, and you'll know why folks are saying there's nothing on wheels to match it.

That bonnet's not broad and haughty for looks alone; it's brim-filled with power—the satin-smooth power of Buick's big Fireball straight-eight engine.

Go where you will, its two solid tons and soft coil springs on all four wheels make byroad and highroad equally smooth.

— even standing still

You get this in any Buick. But you get something more in the one pictured here.

Its snug top shelters you at the touch of a finger. Its door windows and even its front seat are power-operated by push-button control.

And thanks to the magic of Buick's new Silent Zone mounted bodies, you ride in a solid and road-steady silence such as Convertibles have never known before.

In other words, here's style and size, power and room, convenience and comfort all wrapped up in one of the most exciting models of the year's most wanted car.

That means, of course, that it takes a bit of waiting before one can be yours. But the best way to shorten that wait is to take the all-important step — and get your order in now. We'll take it with or without a trade-in.

A FINGER TOUCH—and the door window runs up or down automatically. Other handy controls raise or lower the top and adjust the front seat.

WILL YOU HOLD ONE OF THESE LOSING LOTTERY TICKETS?

This week end, a giant "lottery" will be held in Massachusetts. But it will be unlike any ordinary "lottery." The people who hold the tickets won't win — they will lose. They will lose their lives — or they will be crippled for life.

Yes, by the law of averages, at least six people will be killed in highway accidents in Massachusetts this Memorial Day week end, and scores of others will be seriously injured.

Will you or some member of your family draw one of these losing "lottery" tickets?

Or, will you cause one of these highway tragedies . . . and suffer remorse as long as you live?

You do not need to do this!

Accidents don't just happen. They are caused and they can be prevented.

Here are four ways you can be sure you or some member of your family won't be listed in next Monday morning's headlines:

1. Don't take your car out of the garage unless you know it is in good running order — don't drive it at all unless steering, brakes, tires and lights are in good condition.
2. Don't drive too fast; don't try to "beat" traffic lights; don't cut in and out of line; don't crowd.
3. Don't drive if you have been drinking.
4. Don't be too proud to give up your right of way. Drive as though every other driver on the road were crazy, never forgetting that a lot drive as if they were.

Remember: A life is worth too much to risk losing it. Don't gamble when you drive. The stakes are too high. You can't win.

175 BERKELEY STREET, BOSTON 17, MASS.

★ We work to keep you safe ★

Why and how LIBERTY MUTUAL "works to keep you safe" on the highway

As the largest underwriter of Automobile Insurance in the Commonwealth, we know perhaps better than anyone — except the bereaved families or the injured victims — the heartbreaks which follow every highway tragedy. We know, too, the deep, never-ending remorse suffered by those who cause fatal or crippling accidents. Our job is to pay the money cost of these human losses, when our policyholders are legally liable. But we know that no amount of money can ever make up for the loss of a father, or a mother, or lessen the torment of a child who is crippled for life.

Second, we work to prevent automobile accidents to help reduce insurance costs. If enough accidents can be prevented, insurance rates will come down. As a result of our economical operating methods, we have always saved our policyholders money through dividends which we have returned to them every year. Last year we saved $1,124,353 for our car insurance policyholders in Massachusetts and since 1927 we have returned total savings of $15,364,376 to them.

These are the reasons why we do everything in our power to help prevent highway tragedies . . . why we have published millions of safe driving booklets, sent them to our policyholders, and made them available to the public . . . why we continue to work with highway officials and safety organizations to eliminate traffic hazards.

Insurance must protect — by paying promptly and fairly every claim for which the policyholder is legally liable. Insurance should also prevent losses. Protection and prevention — these are the ways "we work to keep you safe."

Longshore Pact Sought at Parley

Completion of a harmony pact on wages and working conditions between longshoremen was to be sought today at a conference of shippers and union officials, with Director J. Alexander Crothers of the Port of Boston Authority as chairman.

The conference was arranged after Mayor Curley had announced settlement of long-time sore spots in waterfront labor-management relations, and creation of new machinery to settle future disputes.

While the group was meeting at Commonwealth Pier, the mayor planned to fly to Washington to use the new developments as a weapon in preventing loss of flour shipments, resulting from differences that might be encountered in the shipping of goods from Boston.

BI Asked to Probe N. Y. Political Killing

NEW YORK, May 28 (INS)—Rep. Robert R. Ross (R.) of New York, announced he has asked the FBI to investigate the election day killing of Joseph Scottorrigio, a Republican foe of Rep. Vito Marcantonio (D-ALF).

Ross said he asked Atty. Gen. Tom Clark to probe the "obvious interference with Scottorrigio's rights as a G.O.P. district captain. Marcantonio defeated Col. Fred Bryan, Republican, in a bitter contest.

Public Buying Of El June 30 Up to Solons

If approved by the legislature, public ownership of the Boston Elevated Railway would be effected June 30.

The legislative joint committee on metropolitan affairs and transportation recommended public ownership of the El by the 14 cities and towns it now serves.

The bill would provide for the purchase of the line's outstanding common stock at $88 a share through a $21,000,000 bond issue and for the creation of a public authority of five members in place of the five-man board of trustees.

Sen. Philip G. Bowker of Brookline, spokesman for the committee, said public ownership would eliminate the guaranteed annual dividends of $5 per share on all outstanding common stock, "representing a saving of $1,200,000 a year."

Bowker also said federal taxes would not be assessed against the railway under public ownership which would also mean a saving of "more than enough to provide not only the interest on the bond issues to purchase the company's assets but an amount of two per cent to amortize the bonds."

The chairman of the proposed authority would receive $10,000 annually and each member $8000. Members would be appointed for a 10-year-term by the Governor, subject to approval of the executive council.

The report also recommended that the authority take action on a plan to extend the present system as far as South Braintree along the lines of the Old Colony railroad.

Longshore Pact Sought at Parley

Completion of a harmony pact on wages and working conditions for longshoremen was to be sought today at a conference of shippers and union officials, with Director J. Alexander Crothers of the Port of Boston Authority as chairman.

The conference was arranged after Mayor Curley had announced settlement of long-time sore spots in waterfront labor-management relations, and creation of new machinery to settle future disputes.

While the group was meeting at Commonwealth Pier, the mayor planned to fly to Washington to use the new developments as a weapon in preventing loss of flour shipments, resulting from differences that might be encountered in the shipping of goods from Boston.

FBI Asked to Probe N. Y. Political Killing

NEW YORK, May 28 (INS)—Rep. Robert R. Ross (R.) of New York, announced he has asked the FBI to investigate the election day killing of Joseph Scottorriggio, republican foe of Rep. Vito Marcantonio (D-ALF).

Ross said he asked Atty. Gen. Tom Clark to probe the "obvious interference with Scottorriggio's rights as a G.O.P. district captain. Marcantonio defeated Col. Fred Bryan, Republican, in a bitter contest.

Public Buying Of El June 30 Up to Solons

If approved by the legislature, public ownership of the Boston Elevated Railway would be effected June 30.

The legislative joint committee on metropolitan affairs and transportation recommended public ownership of the El by the 14 cities and towns it now serves.

The bill would provide for the purchase of the line's outstanding common stock at $85 a share through a $21,000,000 bond issue and for the creation of a public authority of five members in place of the five-man board of trustees.

Sen. Philip G. Bowker of Brookline, spokesman for the committee, said public ownership would eliminate the guaranteed annual dividends of $5 per share on all outstanding common stock, "representing a saving of $1,200,000 a year."

Bowker also said federal taxes would not be assessed against the railway under public ownership which would also mean a saving of "more than enough to provide not only the interest on the bond issues to purchase the company's assets but an amount of two per cent to amortize the bonds."

The chairman of the proposed authority would receive $10,000 annually and each member $800. Members would be appointed for a 10-year-term by the Governor, subject to approval of the executive council.

The report also recommended that the authority take action on a plan to extend the present system as far as South Braintree along the lines of the Old Colony railroad.

MILLIONS CAN BE SAVED

LEGISLATION designed to make Massachusetts a Community Property State has been filed by Rep. Peter J. Jordan of Revere, a leading Republican, and Rep. David M. Cleary of Charlestown, an important Democrat.

Many other Senators and Representatives will affix their signatures to the bill later on. This measure is undoubtedly the greatest public service to be considered by the present Legislature.

If Massachusetts becomes a Community Property State, the people of Massachusetts will receive the same concessions in the Federal tax law as the people of California, Arizona, Texas, Oregon, Louisiana, New Mexico, Washington, Nevada, Idaho and Oklahoma receive.

This means that the Federal taxes of Massachusetts residents will be reduced as much as 42.7 per cent.

NO LONGER WILL PEOPLE BE PENALIZED FOR LIVING IN MASSACHUSETTS.

NO LONGER WILL THEY BE COMPELLED TO PAY MORE BECAUSE SOME MILLIONAIRE MOTION PICTURE PRODUCER OR $1000-A-WEEK ACTOR IN CALIFORNIA PAYS LESS.

Community Property is simply a legal declaration that one-half of a husband's income or earnings belongs technically to his wife—which is already the actual practice in most families.

The man who earns $10,000 a year is then allowed to file a Federal income tax return on HALF OF HIS INCOME, or $5000. His wife files a return on the OTHER $5000. Both avoid the confiscatory surtaxes. Both stay in the low tax brackets. And both keep a substantial sum of money which the Federal Government would take if the man did not split his income with his wife.

Last year the man who lived in Massachusetts and earned $10,000 had to pay Uncle Sam $2185.

This year, assuming that the pending tax law passes in Washington and that Governor Bradford and the Legislature make Massachusetts a Community Property State like California and the nine others, the man will give Uncle Sam only $1474.

HE WILL THUS SAVE SEVEN HUNDRED AND ELEVEN DOLLARS!

Because Massachusetts money will stay in Massachusetts, the Commonwealth can increase the State income tax WITHOUT IMPOSING AN ADDED BURDEN ON ANY PERSON.

The man who saves 42.7 per cent on his Federal income tax will hardly object to paying the State as much as 10 per cent more, particularly in view of the fact that he will still be saving 32.7 per cent.

Thanks to Representatives Jordan and Cleary and all the other Senators and Representatives who are joining them in the attempt to do this very beneficial thing for the people of Massachusetts, experimental tax schemes that cannot fail to curtail prosperity and unemployment may be avoided.

Everybody will be helped.
Nobody will be hurt.

ESSENTIALS FIRST

A BILL authorizing a second vehicular tunnel under the harbor to East Boston has been approved by the legislative Ways and Means Committee.

This is a necessary public improvement.

The State has spent many millions for the construction and maintenance of Logan Airport.

It cannot afford to jeopardize that investment by allowing traffic tieups and breakdowns in a single, inadequate tunnel to cut off the airport or otherwise to impair its usefulness.

The supplementary tunnel should be built speedily and as economically as present conditions and prices permit.

The State and city planning authorities are wise to abandon fanciful ventures, like the elevated highway across the shopping district, and to adopt a policy of FIRST THINGS FIRST.

WHAT WOULD BE a good name for the main street of Hell? I am talking about Hell, which a reader in Hell who informs me the main stem of that town is nameless, and she asks for suggestions. How about Devil's Boulevard? Incidentally the reader aforementioned concludes her letter with this P.S.: "It's heavenly in Hell in the spring."

SAYS SHE: "No matter what fashion dictates I am not going to wear long skirts," writes a Bostonian. "Nor is the fact that my husband is opposed to short skirts going to influence me. I have the same two reasons for wearing short skirts that Marlene Dietrich has. P. S.: My husband is a minister."

Marlene Dietrich Dietrich has. P. S.: My husband is a minister."

DOG'S LIFE: One year of a dog's age is equal to seven of a man. That is, a four-year-old dog is, as to age, the same as a 28-year-old man. That was the old theory. According to recent research on the subject, a one-year-old dog is equal to a 16-year-old human, a two-year-old to a 24-year-old human, a three-year-old to a 30, a four-year-old to a 35. After that every year in a dog's life is equivalent to a five-year period in a human being, so if your dog is seven years old he is comparable to a 50-year-old human. I have a friend who has a 15-year-old dog. That makes him the same as a 90-year-old man. I saw this dog chasing a female canine down the street yesterday. Think of that, at his age. He should be ashamed of himself.

ASKING: Queries from clients: Q—I am an 11-year-old girl who has been presented with a cocker spaniel. This is my first dog. Can you help me find a name for him? A—Call him Boots. Q—How many times has Dickens' "Oliver Twist" been filmed? A—I can recall only two versions. In one Marie Doro played Oliver. In the other Jackie Coogan played that part. Q—You say Sawmill River rd., New York city, is your favorite street name. You're second choice, please. A—Peachtree st., Atlanta, Ga. Q—I claim Man O' War won a big stake race by 100 lengths. Am I right? Q—You are. On Sept. 4, 1920, Man O' War won the Lawrence Realization Stakes at Belmont Park by 100 lengths. There was only one other starter. An animal named Hoodwink.

REGISTERED PHARMACISTS: Some registered pharmacists do all right. I am regularly informed there is one in a small California town who is paid six hundred dollars a month and twenty-two and a half per cent of the store's profits. His assistant is paid four hundred dollars a month and ten per cent of the store's profits. These two registered pharmacists handle the prescriptions and manage the store for a group of four heirs to the business. So there, little registered pharmacist, don't you cry, maybe you'll have a chance to manage a drug store by and by.

PASSING BY: Jack Teagarden, Trombone specialist. At his best when rendering that mournful ditty, "The St. James Infirmary Blues" . . . Bebe Daniels, Star of the silent cinema era. If you can remember when she was Harold Lloyd's leading lady in two-reel comedies I may be able to get you into the Young Old Times Association . . . Pamela Gordon, Comedienne. Now playing in "John Loves Mary." Is the daughter of Gertrude Lawrence. The first time Pamela saw her mother perform was in "Charlot's Revue." That was the show in which Gerlie registered such a hit singing "The Limehouse Blues."

SIDELIGHTS: A New Jersey genius has invented a gadget which fixes zippers when they don't zip. He sent me one. I don't use zippers, but now and then my girl friend calls for my assistance when struggling to get one of her zippers in working order . . . W. N. Dickie, Blairsville, Pa., who states he is prepared to argue the point, writes: "From the standpoint of military genius the three great generals in American history were Benedict Arnold, Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson."

BRIEFLY: Who is the oldest licensed automobile driver in the United States? Could it be Henry Sharp, of Lodi, Cal., who 187 years old and drives his car regularly? . . . Am asked if Bing Crosby was singing on the radio 15 years ago, in 1932. Indeed he was. And before that with the Rhythm Boys.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate

WELL, SIR, at first I thought that Zaney Swope was pulling a gag, because this telegram said: "Bernard M. Baruch and Herbert Bayard Swope invite you to cocktails to meet the selected reporters attending the seminar of journalism of the American Press Institute," whatever that is, "Columbia School of Journalism, from five to seven o'clock, at Sherry's, 300 Park Avenue—" and so forth.

Westbrook Pegler

So I wired him back that in memory of the dear dead days at Andy's seminary and Perry's and the Key-Club under Brooklyn Bridge, where the dean was a tough lad named Sport Hallahan who got himself appointed a Prohibition agent so he could ride his own loads in from Freeport and confidentially, Pegler, my friend, that sentence has got clear away from you so you better X it out and start over.

ALL RIGHT, so I wired Herbert in memory of those dear dead days in those stately old seminaries that thrive when the newspaper business was supposed to be concentrated on Park Row, although it really wasn't any more localized on Park Row than the theater business is localized on Broadway today.

The Journal and the American were there then, on, I even forget the name of that sort of little square, and the Mail was on City Hall Place and the Tribune, that was before the bleeding hearts went in, and the Sun papers, morning and evening, were on Nassau and, pardon me all over, Mr. P., but weren't you saying something about Pop Swope and the seminaries?

SO I WIRED Herbie about those old seminaries where some of us used to do a little dramming and hanging around, although not me, very much, because I was drawing just $25 a week from the U. P., and you know how much cruising radius that gave a kid, even then. But a lot of the great stars of Park Row did do some fellowshiping in those dumps.

Well, now, I mustn't call Andy's a dump because it wasn't and Perry's was the most stately bar you could imagine.

Hallahan's was a dump all right and it smelled like national goat week in the Old Garden.

They kept the windows boarded up as a snarl for the tax people and the Prohibition Department to make it look like abandoned premises and usually half a dozen teenty red-hots spitting like tomcats on a gas plate that burned up the oxygen.

I GUESS I will tell you tomorrow what I was going to say about those seminaries of the American Press Institute and kind of finish up about Perry's and just some odds and ends.

I write triple space and usually try not to run over four pages, very much, because otherwise they slash your beautiful prose and let it bleed to death and here it is already below the middle of page 32.

WELL, PERRY'S was a small, round room just off the entrance to the World Building—there was a sink, and the bottles were on the drainboards and on shelves around, but there was actually no bar at all.

You just ordered from the fellow and paid the guy at the damper and there was nothing to lean your elbows on or lean against.

So the customers stood up and after the second or third host people would get tired and either go on home or up to Andy's or some other place where you could sit down.

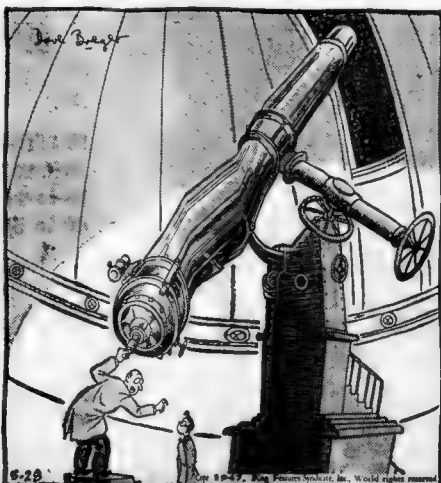

But not to Sport's Dump because this was before prohibition and Perry's was absolutely legitimate and went out about the time that Sport started in down there under the bridge.

Perry's was the only place I ever heard of that really did specialize in cocktails; whereas you see the sign "Cocktails" or "Cocktail Lounge" and all that everywhere these days but it really just means saloon.

I DON'T THINK Perry's ever served an old-fashioned. I don't think this mess ever was heard of until prohibition because in those days if you wanted a fruit salad or a vegetable dinner you went to a restaurant and ordered it like a man.

I don't think they ever heard of an orange blossom in Perry's, but they did used to have a little cocktail called a Bronx that had a smitch of orange juice and not too bad, anyway, until you got your growth and cut out the nonsense and either drank whisky or didn't drink.

YOU USED to see some wonderful newspaper men around those old seminaries. But do you know whom you didn't see? Herbie Swope and Roy Howard.

"Quick, run outside and cover the stars! I think I've discovered a new one!"

Boston After Dark

HOLLYWOOD, May 28—I pinned Jack Warner down at dinner the other evening and learned that Bette Davis' first picture since she had her baby gets going Aug. 15.

Bette Davis

Two stories are on tap, Rebecca West's "The Return of the Soldier" and "Winter Meeting" by Ethel Vance.

Said Jack, "We'll leave it to Bette herself which one she wants to do, but whichever she decides on, Henry Blanke will produce."

When Queen Bette gets back, the velvet carpet will be rolled out for her on account of Jack has a tremendous liking for the Davis Gal. The last time Bette and I sat down for a talk, she told me how beautifully everything had worked out for her with the Warners—the company she fought tooth and nail in England a few years ago.

LOVELY ANNA NEAGLE and her director-producer-husband, Herbert Wilcox, have arrived in New York from England. They haven't been in Hollywood since 1941, but they will come here now to discuss with M-G-M the distribution of their latest picture, "Piccadilly," which, incidentally, won England's 1946 award.

Anna, who married Wilcox at the beginning of the war, was also chosen to British actress of 1946. She starred in RKO pictures up to the time she left to offer her aid to her native land.

While here, Wilcox will arrange to borrow one of Hollywood's top stars in exchange for a British actor.

MANY YEARS AGO, Queenie Smith was ballyhooed as a rival of Marilyn Miller as the singing-dancing darling of Broadway musicals. To my mind, Marilyn never really had a rival—but that doesn't mean that Queenie wasn't a hit starring in "Hit The Deck," "Mississippi" and many others.

Lots of water has flown under the bridge since then, but the reason Queenie crops up now is that she's heading here for the role of the confidence woman in "Sleep My Love" for Triangle.

This is the movie starring Claudette Colbert, Robert Cummings and Don Ameche which Buddy Rogers and Ralph Cohn are producing. I hear Queenie is still tres attractive and this may launch her on a new career.

I WAS PRETTY SURE Gail Patrick would finally say yes to "Corny" Jackson. He is so in love with her, and I knew she wasn't indifferent to him. But Gail kept saying, "A two-time loser, I'm afraid to try it again."

So every week I telephoned her. She called me about 10 days ago with news about her fashion show which takes place Thursday. For once I didn't ask her, so she broke down and told me, and then swore me to secrecy and said I couldn't tell right away.

I make it a rule when people tell me news to keep faith, so there I was with a story all bottled up and unable to tell. Finally, Gail gave me permission to break it.

She and "Corny" plan to be married in the fall, but they have no definite wedding date as yet.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Joan Crawford and Greg Bautzer, as of last night, are as cold as Greenland's icy mountains. Joan says it's all off. Usually she prefaces that remark with, "Of course, we're still friends." But now she's not even saying "We're friends." I don't know what happened, but this time it's serious.

Looks very much to me, unless she has a complete change of heart, the marriage, which everyone thought would take place as soon as she got her divorce from Phil Terry, has been definitely called off. Last night Ava Gardner was out with Greg—at a table for two at Ciro's.

On Tuesday 3000 boys and girls of the Boyle Heights area, who are registered as members of the Lou Costello Youth Foundation, are going to figure in a real Hollywood motion picture premiere.

They will be the guests when "Great Expectations," based on the Charles Dickens story, has its first West Coast premiere. But that isn't all. A prize of $1000 will be awarded for the best slogan, and may I add that this picture, which was produced by J. Arthur Rank, is really one of the finest pictures based on a Dickens' novel that has ever been put on the screen. It's in a class with "David Copperfield" which David Selznick made a few years ago—a classic.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Here's a mighty, mighty interesting twosome—Richard Ney and Betty Hensel, who was once Carly Grant's favorite girl friend, are finding each other excellent company.

Lucien Littlefield, noted character actor, has just announced the engagement of his daughter, Constance, to Rex McDonald.

The feud between John Decker and Nora Eddington Flynn is all smoothed out and both Nora and Errol have received daily bulletins on John's condition.

Pat Henry, the saleslady who inherited money from the estate of Evelyn Walsh McLean, has spent most of it to give two war heroes, Michael Hendricks and J. Thornhill, their eyeglasses. It was done in memory of Pvt. Herbert John Clark, who lost his life on Guam.

The horse that took Champ's place has been very sick, and so Gene Autry has a huge mattress, a nurse and a veterinarian on the set to take charge of Champ while he is working on Gene's movie, "The Last Roundup."

The Bob Hope family with the exception of the two little babies are flying to South America next month. That means Bob, Dolores, Linda and Tony.

Dorothy Malone

There is a whisper that Dorothy Malone, Warner's star, will marry J. Thornton Howell of San Francisco. She has gone home to Dallas to see her parents and get their permission.

The J. Arthur Rank's are being much entertained. The William Goetztes are giving a large dinner Friday night, and Mrs. Fred Packard is hosting a cocktail party for 150 Saturday. She was the former Shilah Rank, daughter of the British movie magnate.

Dewitt Bodene, talented young playwright who was the one American writer to have one of his plays selected by the American Repertory Theater, has a drama, "Escape to Autumn," opening at the Call Broadway theater in Hollywood Friday night.

Has two nice callers, Joan Benny and Sandra Burns. Maybe you've heard of their parents—the Jack Bennys and the George Burns. They're certainly grown up.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

FIFTY YEARS in the theater—by a man who has lived them all—are being described and analyzed by a Beacon st. apartment . . . The veteran theater-owner and producer, Ray Comstock, is the man behind the type-writer . . . His forthcoming book is not titled yet, but it is well under way, and Mr. Comstock believes he will be able to meet his publisher's deadline of April 1, 1948 . . . Ray Comstock was the first name in the magical triumvirate, Comstock, Elliot and Gest, which produced the famous Princess Theater musical comedies 30 years ago.

BOLTON (GUY), Wodehouse (P. G.) and Kern (Jerome) wrote the Princess series, and "Oh, Boy!" "Very Good Eddie" and "Leave It to Jane!" are three Princess Theater shows whose fame have outlived most of their contemporaries.

RAY COMSTOCK BEGAN his career in the book of an upstate New York theater

. . . Charles Hoyt met him and took a fancy to the young ticket-taker . . . Hoyt was the ranking playwright of a half century ago . . . When he suggested that Comstock make a sleeper-jump downtown and try his luck with Broadway, the novice was ready . . . Young Comstock became an independent as soon as he could pile up a little fortune, and stayed on the sidelines—owner of one Broadway theater, the Princess at 28th st. and Broadway—while the syndicate (Klaw and Erlanger) tried to fight off a challenge by the boys from Syracuse (Sam S. Lee and Jacob J. Shubert).

MR. COMSTOCK perhaps is as well informed as any living historian to describe that epochal struggle—a long-drawn-out, bitter battle which was to decide ultimately the fate of the stock owner's legacy in the theater for the next fifty years (at least) . . . But Ray's association with the stage was maintained for many years . . . He retains stock ownership in theaters and royalty rights in valuable stage properties and of importance because it is so untypical of former great men of the theater—a large fortune that permits him to live as he pleases.

READERS of the Boston American's Green Sheet will be interested in the life Mr. Comstock has chosen to live as he pleases . . . He writes and takes care of business in the morning . . . That goes for Boston in the summertime and Florida in the winter . . . In the afternoon, Mr. Comstock goes to the races—driving leisurely in the old Rolls Royce he owned when Jeanne Eagels was the theater's most brilliant young star in "Rain."

ARRIVED AT THE race-track, the venerable theatrical man makes a modest bet . . . On each race . . . But he doesn't handicap the horses himself . . . He follows Dave Wilson . . . Dave's selections are telephoned to him when he is in Florida . . . "It was a splendid season in Florida," he said. "Dave was in his best form" . . . (Curiously, Mr. Comstock has never met Handicapper Dave Wilson, and until Dave reads this he is unaware that one of his faithful follows him in this devoted fashion.)

IF THERE ARE ANY aspiring theatrical producers, or theater owners, reading these lines, the sage counsel of Ray Comstock may prove valuable . . . "In back of the success of any outstanding producer is invariably a writer," he said . . . "The ideal arrangement would be a every producer with a sound writing talent. That happens too rarely, though . . . On our side of the ocean, I can think only of George M. Cohan . . . Noel Coward used to handle his own productions in London, and it is not uncommon in the Paris theater to have writers producing their own brain-children."

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, May 28—If I may coin a cliché and it wouldn't be the first time) Hollywood owes a large vote of thanks to the delicate and ineffably charming young lady named Margaret O'Brien.

Margaret O'Brien

I am speaking not as a critic of Margaret's acting, although she is superlative in that department, but as an observer of department children, a phenomenon which is more than occasionally painful to observe. Margaret is a rare creature.

True, her ability as a pint-sized Bernhard fills Hollywood's eager pockets and enhances the general reputation of the cinema industry, but aside from that she is probably the finest good will ambassador the screen colony could find. Singlehanded she has done more to dispel the notion that movie children are spoiled temperamental monsters than the amount of lush adjectival propaganda from filmdom's publicity mills could do.

Since she has been in New York she has developed quite an admiration for Donald Richards, the young baritone who is currently playing Woody Mahoney in "Finian's Rainbow." She and her pretty aunt, Marissa O'Brien, congratulated Donald backstage at the show, and later visited him at his East Side apartment. Margaret saw some photographs of Donald on a table, and asked if she might have one to take with her to Bermuda. Donald, of course said she could.

Whereupon Margaret O'Brien, one of the brightest stars in the cinema galaxy, looked up at the virtually unknown young singer and murmured shyly, "Please—would it be asking too much if you autographed it for me?"

WASHINGTON, May 28—When I was somewhat younger than I am now and Leander's stunt in swimming the Hellsport was still considered fairly hot news it was the quaint custom of sports writers to write about the people who were actually engaged in athletic contests.

They wrote about Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb and Walter Johnson and Gene Sarazen and Gene Tunney and Nurni and Barney Oldfield and Equipoise, even Opeplanca who was considered a very hot right-hander at chess. They had a hidebound idea that the fans wanted to read about the ones they had seen performing.

Happily all that has changed. The modern sports writer, his finger ever on the pulse of the nation, knows that the Dodger fan does not care who is playing baseball for the team. He wants to know how things are with Happy Chandler and Leo Durocher.

The sports writer knows that the boxing fan does not care a whoop about the fighters, or even which team. He wants to know what boxing Comr. Egan said to a second when he called him on the carpet.

Our enlightened sports scribe knows that the last thing a football fan wants to hear about is who will play this fall. He wants to know whether George Preston Marshall is in complete rapprochement with the man who leads the Redskins' band between halves.

THERE WEREN'T many night clubs in the medieval times I was speaking about, or, if there were, I didn't have the dough to go to them, which is still the case today. But most of those in existence had an antiquated custom of mentioning, in the largest possible type, who was performing therein.

Of course, what the night club devotee really wanted to know was who was running the dump, or anyway fronting for it. The fine minds of show business began to appreciate this more and more until today the name of the dump's operator is in the big lights while the performers are reduced to minuscule type, as they should be.

The result is that we now can stand entranced before one of these shrines and see that it is "Ponty Mosier's Copacabana-backyard." And if we have our reading specs and peer closely, we can possibly make out that it is currently hiring Joe E. Lewis or Sophie Tucker, or maybe both.

In fact, it got so up-to-date in Miami Beach last year and the year before that co-owners of a trap were fighting over which should get top billing.

In baseball, the gentlemen covering the New York Yankees came to full appreciation of the change in the times. Instead of battling out a lot of information about the games, the switched to lyrical prose about the fascinating characters in the front office, in particular Leland Stanford MacPhail.

Practically everything MacPhail said or did was duly recorded—which encompassed considerable recording because he said quite a lot, PacPhail—whoops, a typographical error!—also could be covered without knowing anything about baseball.

CURRENTLY they are mentioning a player named Joseph DiMaggio but not anything he did on the diamond; only because he has incurred the displeasure of the aforesaid MacCann—I mean MacPhail. MacTub fined him for refusing to participate in promotional activities, meaning having his picture taken in undignified poses.

By George Dixon

Personally I think DiMaggio is very lucky to get his name in the papers, and if he had an ounce of gratitude, he would be fawning over MacBuckley for getting him mentioned instead of sulking, as he is reported to be doing. But ingratitude is sharper than a serpent's tooth—and I don't mean Shor.

Looking back now it is hard to understand how I could have been so unenlightened in my sports-writing days as to load the customers up with details of the various games I covered. In hockey, for instance, I always used to tell which side had won when I should have realized that the readers only wanted to know about the problems of the man responsible for freezing the rink.

MEMORIES OF OLD striptease acts seem to linger on in the office of Senate minority leader Barkley because it used to be the robing—and disrobing—room of the Supreme Court.

Smart Set At Vincent Club
By BETTY ALDEN
COOL SUMMER LINES and bright prints made their debut in yesterday's welcome sunshine as Vincent Club members, several hundred strong, arrived for the annual meeting and luncheon at Zero Marlborough st.

Completing her term as president, popular Dorothy Rackemann, continues in office for the coming year and presided at yesterday's meeting. Also continuing in office are Sally Reed and Mrs. Alfred Kidder 2d, vice-presidents, and four members at large: Mrs. George N. Chamberlain Jr., Rosamond Rackemann, Almy, Mrs. Kenneth Howes, Jr., and Virginia Palfrey.

Dorothy Rackemann, Almy, Mrs. Kenneth Howes, Jr., and Virginia Palfrey.

Newly elected officers are Mrs. C. Chumcey Gray, third vice president and publicity chairman; Jane S. Megrew, treasurer; Mrs. Thomas H. Lanman, assistant treasurer; Day Hansel, secretary, and Louise Crowninshield, assistant secretary. Two new members at large are Mrs. Malcolm Bancroft and Sylvia Winsor who will change her name to Mrs. Winthrop Wing on June 14.

Vincent Club was organized over 50 years ago to help support Vincent Memorial Hospital. It was voted to donate $36,000 to the hospital, $23,000 of which is proceeds from the 1947 Vincent show. Marjorie Soule of Brookline, pretty and popular member, talked on her work in the Vincent Laboratory which is nationally famous in medical circles.

Luncheon table conversation centered around June weddings, summer plans and the Goodale trial. Ann Clarke of Brookline who will be married to Laurence Morgan a week from Saturday was as pretty as a picture in a Glen plaid suit and matching feathered hat. Mrs. Henry McE. Parker who is going to her summer home at Prout's Neck for the holiday week-end, chatted with her good friend Mrs. C. Campbell Paterson who came up from Marion for the luncheon.

Mrs. Gelston King of Sherborn was very voguish in an electric blue linen suit with a tiny hat of white lilacs and a white lilac corsage. Mrs. Lewis Clark, a petite blonde, had an admiring circle of photographers to guide her as she maneuvered her brand new car into a tight space.

The weather has been better in Poughkeepsie than here, according to Connie Yerxa who has just arrived from Vassar for the summer holidays and is sporting a wonderful tan. Nancy Breed, one of her sister debs of the past winter, was telling friends that she and her family are moving soon to Marion, and Mrs. Francis Rackemann proudly listened as her daughter presided.

Others attending were Mrs. S. Parkman Shaw, Jr., Mary Frances Ludwig in a handsome garden party print and navy picture hat, Ann Folsom of Hingham, Mary and Geneva Hobbs, Mrs. Arthur Dupe, Jr., Mrs. Hamilton Osgood, Mrs. S. Abbot Smith, Mrs. Stearns Poor who composes much of the music for Vincent shows, and Sally Higginson whose red hair glistened in the sun above a navy linen frock.

FRIDAY, JUNE 13 looks like a lucky day for members of the Society of Colonial Wars for that's the date chosen for its annual Field Day and Muster at the Eastern Yacht Club, Marblehead. A bus will take members from Copley Square to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund H. Talbot of Marblehead Neck who are entertaining them before the Yacht Club luncheon. The outing program includes exhibition tennis matches and outdoor sports.

Walter Merriam Pratt is Governor of the Society. The outing committee includes Edward Dana, chairman, Raymond B. Bidwell, John L. Damon, H. Converse Gould, Harold D. Hodgkinson, Harold Plimpton and Horace P. Stevens.

New members since last Christmas include Ben P. P. Moseley of Ipswich and three sons, Edward, Thomas and William, of Ipswich, Webb White of Weston, Calvin Hosmer and son Calvin Jr., of Boston, Thomas M. Clafin, Roger B. Conant.

Quints 13 Now May Get Swim Pool

CALLANDER, Ont., May 28 (AP)—The Dionne quintuplets celebrated their 13th birthday today, and their father said he was worried because they hadn't yet learned to swim.

Oliva Dionne added that he was thinking about building a private swimming pool on his farm for daughters Annette, Cecile, Marie, Yvonne and Emilie.

"Neither Mrs. Dionne nor myself intends to dictate to them about their future," he said.

The girls took a holiday from school to admire their gifts—including watches and necklaces from their parents.

The nuns who teach them reported them serious-minded, individual in personality, accomplished in music and not much interested in sports or pretty clothes.

Wheelchair Buses To Paralyzed Vets

NEW YORK, May 28—Three wheelchair buses were speeding toward New York as a Memorial Day gift to paralyzed war veterans.

Costing nearly $17,000, the vehicles will be donated by the New York Journal-American war wounded fund to Bronx Veterans Hospital, Halloran Veterans Hospital, and the U. S. Naval Hospital at St. Albans.

To rush delivery, the buses are being driven here under escort of a Navy staff car direct from the plant in Chicago.

Specially designed, the vehicles are fitted with lightweight metal ramps which allow paraplegics to be trundled in without leaving their wheelchairs. Each vehicle holds eight patients, together with attendants and nurses.

talked wily anyone when you came down here. A—Yes.

King—That's all.

After Brennan's testimony there was a bench conference, Asst. Dist. Atty. Clark went back and got a crumpled pink dress, which he placed on the clerk's desk. It was entered as Exhibit 46 after Judge Goldberg ruled:

"I am allowing this to be marked as an exhibit simply on the testimony of Helen Leary and Ruth Jefferson, either or both, as being similar in color and style to the dress Ruth McGurk wore on the night of July 27 when she was last seen. I allow it only for that purpose, and it is limited in scope."

Dewing—"The Commonwealth rests."

Callahan rose and entered two motions which he said were being placed before the court "in view of our conference in the lobby yesterday."

Judge Goldberg smiled—"It might be a good idea, Mr. Callahan, for you to sign the motions if you are going to present them."

The motions were signed and returned, and then the judge ruled: "These two motions are to be filed. The two are to be denied, and the defendant's exceptions to the denials will be saved."

CALLAHAN'S PLEA

After a short recess, Callahan then began his final argument:

If it now may please Your Honor, Mr. Foreman and gentlemen of the jury, the time has come for the attorney for the defense and attorney for the Commonwealth to make what is known as the final arguments.

Before that, I will say that I appreciate the strict attention that you gentlemen have paid to the evidence as presented in this case.

It may have seemed to you in my examination of witnesses that my questioning could have been shorter. Questions were repeated. But you must appreciate the fearful responsibility that is on my shoulders as counsel representing the defendant in a capital case.

If you feel that there was a lot of repetition in examination of witnesses, charge it up to the counsel for the defendant.

I have brought in this case everything that is beneficial to my client. I have taken more time probably than you thought I should. And during that time, I was doing everything that I would do for anyone of you gentlemen, and I would want you to do the same for me if I were sitting there in the dock (points toward Goodale in dock).

You are members of the oldest county in the United States and the history of Plymouth County has been brought down through the years as a county of justice.

You have taken seats on this jury under oath to listen to the evidence and render a just verdict. I know that your verdict will be a just verdict. I ask you for that, Gentlemen of Plymouth county, you want to hear facts.

In my address before you I am going to confine myself to facts. I am not going to orate because I don't feel capable as an orator.

And what remarks I make before you, Mr. foreman and gentlemen of the jury, will be remarks to the best of my recollection as evidence in this case.

Cyclist Loses Foot In Cambridge Crash

Surgeons at Cambridge City the Cottage Farm bridge. Hospital today amputated the left foot of Robert Smart, 22, of Ausby Mrs. Betty Mason, 23, a resident at Charlestown, after the dent of the Westgate West youth was in collision with an ang project at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where her husband is a student.

Card. Spellman Asks Honest Work

NEW YORK, May 28 (INS)—Francis Cardinal Spellman said that America can conquer any crisis through work—that renders a dollar's worth of service for a dollar fairly paid.

He told the New York Building Congress that work, based on confidence in ourselves, our economy and our country, was the thing that would make for happiness and prosperity in the United States.

The Cardinal's statement echoed an appeal recently made by Bernard M. Baruch, in which the statesman called for a longer work week to cure our economic ills.

The Catholic prelate backed up his conviction with the announcement that he would spend $25,000,000 for the construction of buildings within the archdiocese of New York.

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School

Q—If all sprays are used to control weeds, how will they affect the soil? Is there any residue?

A—The volatile oils commonly used should have no effect on the soil, as they evaporate soon after use. Heavy lubricating oils should be used only on drives, as they damage soil.

Q—What temperatures are best for successful germination of be-gonia seed?

A—The best temperature is about 70 degrees Fahrenheit. Soil should be light and sandy for best results.

Q—Is it necessary to put brush or a frame under the compost heap to allow for air circulation?

A—It is just as well to build the heap right on the ground. Coarse material like corn stalks can be used and will decay in about one year.

Q—What is the objection to burying garbage in the garden?

A—None, if covered deep enough. Burying garbage may attract animals which will dig it up. It is especially bad in encouraging rats.

Q—I own several acres of land away from home, where I cannot give it much attention. What crops can I plant?

A—This land had better be seeded down to a good grass mixture. This will build up the soil for future use and prevent erosion.

Q—Should the lawn be mowed when wet?

A—Not a good practice. Mower wheels crush the wet grass and the cutter blade pulls more than it cuts. This damages the lawn.

L'Guardia Says He'll Talk To World Common Folks

NEW YORK, May 28.—(INS)—Former mayor and UNRRA director F. H. La Guardia said he would use his globe-circling "one world" flight award to talk to the "man on the street" in other countries.

Accepting the Wendell Willkie memorial fund award at a ceremony at Carnegie Hall, La Guardia said: "I can only visit countries as a man from the street, just one of the common folks, and talk to the folks of other countries." Awards also were given to Arturo Toscanini and Frederic March.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, WED., MAY 28, 1942

Beauty Bath for Eyes

By RUTH MUGGLEBER, Beauty and Fashion Editor

IT DOESN'T ALWAYS have to be smoke or the sun or the dust . . . It can be just plain every-day life that gets into the eyes and robs them of their requisite twinkle and sparkle. For eyes have a way of being your life's "mouthpiece" . . . of being the reflection of the kind of a life you live.

A BEAUTY BATH for the eyes is as requisite as daily ablutions for the hands . . . if, like the pictured model, you crave scintillating orbs that bespeak your happy lot in life . . . your captivating facial charm . . . your eye-cue to eye-appeal. And used as part of a daily eye-routine, including an eye cream and medicated eye-pad . . . you'll have no trouble ridding the face of the troubled look which undermines the youthful look.

All the day's fatigue . . . or the night's indulgences . . . find resting place in the dulling of the orbs. Worry, lack of sleep, cares and troubles may often find an unwanted counterpart in complexion sluggishness . . . but, invariably, and almost without exception . . . they snitch brilliance from the eyes themselves. So instead of cup-and-saucer largeness . . . they become slits with heavy-lidded drops.

Caring for the eyes is another way of challenging your own little world . . . the sphere in which you move and which moves you. At best, the eyes are the most delicate mechanism of the face . . . yet they are, perhaps, the most overworked feature of the entire head. Never mind the romantic future which clear, sparkling eyes may easily lead to . . . remember the present importance of the eyes which must speak for you today.

We don't tell our secrets to every willing ear. Then why let the world see what bothers us in our eyes? Pretense is just another way of keeping up appearances. Sometimes it is a satisfactory artifice . . . a necessary lie . . .

ADDS NEW SPARKLE

Maybe you don't care about how beautiful you look. But somehow the way the eyes look is above and beyond beauty per se. Happy eyes make for a happy personality. Refreshed, pep-up eyes make for a renewed outlook. At any rate . . . there is a smart little eye package which is the eye-cue for your p. q. . . personality quotient.

It consists of an eye lotion that will cleanse and refresh the orbs . . . give them a new lease on largeness . . . a jar of rich lubricating cream to appease the eye corners from developing a fatigue framework of lacy lines so that your face can make some claim to the soft, smooth youthful look . . . and a specially medicated eye-pad to be soaked in hot water and placed over the eyes while catching a nap or resting.

For the name of this eye-cue set for new-born and bright eyes, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, daily except Sunday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BARBECUE SPREAD

2 tbsp. shortening
1 tbsp. flour 1-3 cup water
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
2 tbsp. chili sauce
2 tbsp. catsup 1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
1/4 tsp. garlic salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
2 tbsp. chopped green pepper
2 tbsp. chopped sweet pickle
2 egg yolks

Melt shortening in saucepan; remove from heat and blend in flour until smooth. Slowly stir in water and return to heat; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat; blend in remaining ingredients. Continue cooking and stirring over low heat, until mixture thickens to a mayonnaise consistency. Store in refrigerator in covered jar until ready to use. Makes about 1 1/2 cup sauce.

APPLE PEANUT BUTTER

4 tbsp. peanut butter
1 tbsp. mayonnaise
1 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 cup finely chopped apples, pared

Soften peanut butter and blend with mayonnaise. Add lemon juice to freshly pared apples, mix apples thoroughly through peanut butter. Store in refrigerator until ready to use. Makes about 1 cup of spread.

Cross-Ocean Love Risky

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of 22 and have been writing to a young man of 24 who lives in Italy. He has said he cares for me, and I like him very much but don't know whether or not I love him. He is a schoolteacher and writes to me in English, because he was an interpreter during the war for the American Air Force.

He has been trying to come to America but hasn't found a way yet. Could I have him come to America without promising to marry him, since I'm not sure of my feelings for him? After all, I've never met him face to face and it wouldn't be fair to either of us. BETTY.

DEAR BETTY:

You would be very foolish to get involved in the machinery of trying to aid this young man in coming to this country.

In the first place, it is not likely that you could do anything to help him get here. He is not a relative, nor is he your fiancé, and our State Department is certainly not interested in bringing a young man into the country for the purpose of having you look him over as a possible husband.

In the second place, this chap's only interest in you may be to try and use you in some way to further a plan of getting into the United States.

Long-distance, "sight unseen" romances are very risky things, and I advise you strongly not to get mixed up in anything of the kind.

What Parents of Groom Wear

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My son is to be married next month, and the church ceremony is to be followed by a hotel reception. I am wearing a street-length dress of lace. Would it be proper for my husband to wear a tuxedo to the church, to the reception, or to both? We have decided to leave the final decision in your hands. F. F.

If the ceremony is to take place after 6 o'clock in the evening, and if the wedding is a semi-formal or informal one, it is appropriate for your husband to wear a tuxedo. However, he should plan to wear the same type of attire to be worn by the bride's father (the host of the wedding), just as you should wear the same type of attire to be worn by the bride's mother (the hostess).

COLOR is the fashion pal of line and fit this season . . . and in this pomegranate print rayon shantung dress it gets a royal chance to meet and hold the eye. Against a bittersweet colored background . . . white fruits are modified for summer subtlety. And to carry out the new trend . . . its designer, Mary Stevens . . . has fashioned a portrait neckline and added a black patent leather belt above a gathered front plenum concealing slot pockets.—R. M.

For Varied Summer Needs

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

HOW NICE to own the perfect dress, a dress that can go shopping in the morning, to a luncheon meeting at noon and on to cocktails later in the day.

A dress that is cool and comfortable, simple yet sophisticated.

Does it sound like a myth? It isn't; it's a reality—the good black basic dress, done this summer in cool cotton or rayon. The basic dress is beautiful because its cut and drape are good, versatile because it is utterly simple and can be dressed up or down with accessories. Wear it plain for shopping, with a small hat and pearls for luncheon, with your gayest hat and your most spectacular jewelry for cocktails.

A basic dress for summer, designed by Claire Smith, is sketched today. Made of cool, smooth rayon, it has a long, uncluttered line draped to one side, a simple neckline and cap sleeves. It is belted in gunmetal patent leather.

GREAT NEWS FOR LOVERS OF GOOD COFFEE!

Now—the new instant
G. WASHINGTON'S ACTUALLY SAVES YOU
UP TO 6¢ A DAY
on your food bill!

*and gives you the best cup of coffee
you ever tasted!*

4 Big Reasons for its Rich, Mellow Flavor

New FLAVOR CONTROL

For blend, for roast . . . for richness, for body, for flavor, for goodness—the new Instant G. WASHINGTON'S is cup-tested every step of the way! Yes, G. WASHINGTON'S veteran coffee tasters make 42 separate cup tests—safeguard all the rich, mellow flavor of our own exclusive blend of choice, select coffees.

New FLAVOR EXTRACTION

And—you get every bit of this rich, mellow flavor because of our new and exclusive method of flavor extraction. Never bitter—never weak—we extract coffee's goodness at the peak of its flavor . . . by a method no housewife could possibly duplicate with her coffee-making equipment.

Make yourself the best cup of coffee you ever tasted! By the pot, or by the cup, it's ready in just 5 seconds. No guesswork, no grounds, no waste. Every cup the same best flavor—and—it actually saves up to 6¢ a day on your food bill!

New FLAVOR PROTECTION

And then—in order to enhance, enrich and protect all of this rich, mellow flavor until you're ready to enjoy it in the cup . . . dextrins, maltose and dextrose are added. You get all the goodness of good coffee—plus finer flavor!

New FLAVOR-SEALED TIN

And—for still further flavor protection—we pack the new Instant G. WASHINGTON'S in the New Red Tin. Has a double flavor seal—an easy to open lock top. Air can't get in—flavor can't get out. Only the new Instant G. WASHINGTON'S gives you this long-lasting flavor protection.

Here's Why You Save up to 6¢ a Day on Your Food Bill

Most leading brands of ground coffee cost several cents more than the new Instant G. Washington's. A full pound of ground coffee makes about 35 cups average strength—yet a tin of the new Instant G. Washington's actually makes about 50 CUPS!

So, even if you make only 10 cups of coffee a day, Instant G. Washington's can save you as much as 6¢ every day on your food bill.

REVIVED for the holiday week-end, "Alexander's Ragtime Band," starring Tyrone Power (above), Alice Faye and Ethel Merman, is to be seen at the New Center Theater.

The eagerly anticipated world premiere of R. Adm. Richard E. Byrd's epic motion picture, "Discovery," will take place at the new Center Theater on Washington st. Thursday evening, June 12, at 8:30.

The opening performance will be sponsored by the Massachusetts General Hospital nurses' alumnae association for the benefit of the nurses' sick relief association fund. Tickets for this single performance at which Adm. Byrd will speak may be obtained from Miss Miriam Huggard at Phillips House.

"Discovery," filmed in its entirety in the Antarctic region, is neither a documentary film nor a travelogue. Events of the Byrd expedition, combined with the ferocity of nature in these regions, provided the material for this exciting adventure film.

The film, which will be shown continuously from 9 a. m. daily following the June 12 world premiere, is in a sense a Boston project. Its producer and principal actor, Admiral Byrd, has long been a Beacon Hill resident. Joseph E. Levine, distributor of the picture on a world-wide basis, is a well-known Boston and New York executive who is associated with Embassy Pictures, Motion Picture Ventures, Inc., and Discovery films.

MGM'S POPULAR STARS, Van Johnson and June Allyson, are teamed in "High Barbaree," which is due on Loew's twin screens tomorrow.

Cape Playhouse Stars Named

Richard Aldrich has signed Joan Parker and Luise Rainer to star at Cape Playhouse, Dennis, in "Dream Girl" and "Joan of Lorraine" respectively. The two stars of stage and screen will appear at the Playhouse, America's most famous summer theater, in July... Miss Parker the fourth week and Miss Rainer the fifth week.

"Dream Girl" and "Joan of Lorraine" are the Playwrights Company smash-hits of the past Broadway season. They are to be the fourth and fifth engagements at the Cape Playhouse, which celebrates its 20th anniversary on July 4th.

The first two bills are Constance Bennett, in "Over 21," opening June 30, and Gertrude Leisen, in "Personal Appearance," a July 7. Arthur Sircorn, returning for his eighth season, will be resident stage director.

JOAN HITS GOVERNMENT

WILMINGTON, Del., May 28 (AP)—Alfred P. Sloan, board chairman of General Motors, charged government interference had reduced GM profits for 1946 to the "bottom of the depression of the '30s."

EAS-EASING job news for Fredric March's returned veteran in "The Best Years of Our Lives," which begins a second week on the RKO Boston screen tomorrow, is the explanation for the happiness he and his wife (Myrna Loy) register.

Tonight at Pops

Arthur Fiedler has invited Louis Kipper to conduct tonight's Pops concert in Symphony Hall. The program will include: Military Polonaise Chopin-Glazounoff; Overture to "Light Cavalry" Strauss; Nocturne and Scherzo from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" Mendelssohn; "Fiducia" Vivaldi; Suite from the Ballet, "Gygvia" Delibes.

The Histrionic of Pain Pirzetti, Professional of Bacchus; Dance Macabre; Second Hungarian Rhapsody Liszt; Selection from "Catacombs"; Old MacDonald Had a Farm; Rodgers Rodeo; Strike Up the Band; Northern Alma Mater.

'Carnegie Hall' Advance Orders Heavy at Esquire

Advance mail orders for "Carnegie Hall," the forthcoming Boris Morros-William LeBaron musical film, have surpassed the preliminary requests for both "Henry V" and "The Best Years of Our Lives." So reports the management at the Esquire Theater, where the new musical will open its New England premiere engagement on a road-show basis June 17.

"Carnegie Hall," which features 16 world-famous musical artists, will be seen in Boston at two performances daily, at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m., with all seats reserved. Tickets for this engagement will be priced at $1.50 and $1.40 for the evening performances, and at $1.40 and $1.20 for the daily matinees.

The picture is the first full-length motion picture to be filmed 100 per cent in the East in more than eight years. The shooting was done principally on the stage and in the auditorium of the world-famed old temple of music on New York's West 57th st. with Edgar G. Ulmer directing.

Producers Morros and LeBaron indicated that their reason for making the picture in New York instead of doing it on the West Coast was based largely upon their desire to "do right" by the hall. They were fearful that coast art directors might, from force of habit, tend to "overglamorize" the hall were they to attempt to build new sets. For days before the shooting commenced workmen swarmed through the hall restoring the 19th century grandeur it had known on that night in 1891 when Carnegie Hall opened with Walter Damrosch conducting the New York Symphony.

The world-famous New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra and such directors as Leopold Stokowski, Bruno Walter, Fritz Reiner and Artur Rodzinski were contracted. Lily Pons, Rise Stevens, Jan Peerce and Eddy Arnold were picked as soloists. The choice of instrumentalists brought such outstanding stars as cellist Gregor Piatigorsky, violinist Jascha Heifetz and pianist Artur Schnabel. As representatives of the field of popular music which has itself achieved success on Carnegie's

Red Sox Batting Goes Collapsible; Flag Hope Slumps

By AUSTEN LAKE

WHAT A DIFFERENCE A YEAR MAKES! Twelve months ago today the Red Sox were leading their league with 29 games won and 9 lost. Today they are half a game above the fourth-place Indians with 17 won and 15 lost.

A year ago Ted Williams was hitting .348, Johnny Pesky .346, Dom DiMaggio .248, Doerr .229 and York .224. A year ago the club had batted in 192 runs. To date its RBI is 136.

From batsmen whom we word painters glorified as "mace maniacs," "assassins of swat" and all such alliterative twosh, they have withered down to partial paralytics. And why? For there is no internal dissension such as recently curdled the locker room of the New York Yankees. They are the best salaried group in the major leagues. The only cripple on their roster is Mickey Harris. On paper the league opposition ranks about the same. They are a better balanced unit than a year ago with three able young pitchers (Dorish, Parnell and Fine) and a sterling right fielder (Mele). Then why?

The "Team to Beat"

UP TO NOW, WE, AS home town apologists, have been writing about the filthy weather and the epidemic of illness and injury. All the Sox needed was hot weather and health, we said. But lately they've had both and yet consider the stampeade at the Yankee Stadium during the last four days when the Yanks, supposedly embroiled in a clubhouse spat, scored 40 runs, 51 hits totalling 71 bases against the Red Sox 5 runs, 13 hits and 18 bases. That calls for a congressional investigation!

What's wrong? Cronin doesn't know, so why should I? In retort to a New York ball writer's enquiry, Joe snapped, "If you can tell me what's wrong with the St. Louis Cardinals I'll tell you what ails us."

But I can guess! For one thing, a year ago the entire American League from the bat boys to President Will Harridge were rooting for the Red Sox to win their first pennant in 28 years. Not that the opposition babled its shots, but they just couldn't get heated about it. But the league isn't cheering the Sox now. It feels its debt of sympathy is paid and every manager is setting his battle sights bechune the Sox ears. As Cronin has said so repetitiously, "The Sox are the team to beat." He's right. They're getting beat!

Another thing! From being a ranting, chance taking, all-for-glory leader a year ago when his every little gamble hit the big casino, Cronin has relapsed into a morose, anti-gnawing, perplexed man with a wistful light in his blue eye. He isn't the type to snarl and rear or chase people around with sticks. He just simmers secretly and the rest of his crew take their cue from him. Nobody's mad, just sad!

Ball Clubs Are That Way

ALSO THE RED SOX, emotionally, are built around Ted Williams with the fixation that, "As Williams goes so goes the team." They used to say the same thing about Babe Ruth and the elder Yankees just as, in recent years, they say it about Joe DiMaggio. For every pennant winning team has had a central spark, some one to make the pace—as Johnny Mize is doing with the renovated Giants and Pat Mullins for the reborn Tigers. Which may explain the abysmal dive of the Cardinals, whose 1946 sparkplug, Stan Musial, is batting somewhere near the bottom of the league. Ball clubs are that way!

Noticably when Ted went sour during the mid-August walkup to the '46 pennant, the team followed his spiritual flop. And Ted's conspicuous failure in the World Series keynoted the team's collapse. Don't ask me why? But Ted's fozzles and the Sox gimmicks have run concurrently. Call a psychiatrist!

Just now Williams is wavering around the 300 plimsel, lower in average, though higher in home runs, than at any time during his early season career. The irrevocable fact is, despite his occasional to left field, he has not conquered the mental hazard of the Boudeau shift. For Ted's hitting miseries date from the late summer afternoon at Fenway when the Indians' manager ordered his gang defense. Ted's stubborn attempts to blast the ball through this human hedgehog has cost him around a dozen safe hits this year and will, if he persists, cost him 40 more. It's the difference between mediocrity and greatness.

So, one way or 'tuther, it will take a sudden resurrection amounting to a small miracle to get the Sox safely home from this long trip and still be within striking distance of the top. There are fewer soft spots in the league this time where the spread between top and bottom is only eight and a half games against 19 this date in '46. Not even Connie Mack's bloopster boys, where the Sox are licking their wounds today, offer any sanctuary. Well bring 'em home alive Joe, or at least safe for stuffing.

Braves Like Southpaw Diet So Chapman Feeds Another

By FRED HOEY

If Ben Chapman, pilot of the Phillies, persists in sending southpaws against the Braves it will be all right with Billy Southworth. That's what Ben plans to do tonight when he sends Ken Heintzelman, his second ranking southpaw, against the Tribe in the Wigwam at 8:30.

Three left-handed Braves batters, Tommy Holmes, Johnny Hopp and Earl Torgeson, had a lot to do with sending Ken Heintzelman, top ranking southpaw, to the showers before the third inning was finished last night. The tall left-hander was reached for eight hits during his 3 1-3 innings on the hill. Of those eight, the Boston left-handed batters gathered four safeties. Holmes grabbed two and Hopp and Torgy one each.

Another lively battle is assured when the venerable Si Johnson opposes Heintzelman.

Games between these teams are warm affairs. Chapman has led all the strings in his effort to get more hitting power and pitching into the battle. Last night, as the Braves tipped over the Phils, 7-3, Ben reached into his bag and came up with four pitchers. Following Ruffensberger came two former Card pitchers, Blix Donnelly and Fred Schmidt. Jurisch finished up the eighth.

The Braves' win gives them a 4-3 count over the Phils. The Braves have landed right back in the pennant fight and are within hailing distance of the top.

Last night's game attracted 21,678. The attendance at the Wigwam for 16 games in 14 playing dates has now reached 193,618. They should reach the quarter-million mark within the next four days with the Phils here for all other night game tonight and the Dodgers in for a holiday double-header, a single Saturday game, and a twin bill with Pittsburgh on Sunday.

Johnny Sain showed signs of regaining his old vigor here for he had his bad moments with an occasional wild streak but he plugged away. The Phils reached him for three runs and 10 hits but Johnny got himself out of some spots. On the other hand, the Braves made merry with Phils pitching, gathering 13 hits.

Earl Torgeson electrified the big crowd in the eighth when he lifted a tremendous homer into the right field section of the pavilion 10 rows high. It was homer No. 9 for Torgy. So two more RBIs helps the young first sacker to lead the big league in this department.

Howie Schultz, the Phillies' first baseball, and Mgr. Leo Durocher of the Dodgers didn't hit it off last year. So Howie considers it his best break when Brooklyn sold him to Ben Chapman. Ben's first duty was to assure big Schultz that the first base job was solely his. Thereupon, Chapman released his other first basemen—Frank McCormick, now of the Braves; Nick Etten, now with Newark, and Lou Finney, managing a team in Florida. Chapman's psychology is paying dividends, for Howie Schultz is mugging the ball and playing a nifty first base.

Press box talk drifted to Warren Spahn and his value at current baseball market prices. One writer ventured even as high as $200,000, but for the most part the boys were around the $100,000 mark. Warren's seven straight wins raised many eyebrows from coast to coast. The whole town is talking about the Braves-Brooklyn doubleheader on Friday's holiday. When Harry Walker was notified by the Cards in Philadelphia that he had been sent to the Phillies in exchange for Ron Northey, Harry found his equipment was in the Card trunk bound for this city. Playing next day, he borrowed Nick Etten's bat, Emil Verban's shoes, Buster Adams' glove, Blix Donnelly's sweat shirt and a batting tip he got from his brother Dixie of the Dodgers. Dixie told him to shorten his stance and watch the ball all the way. Harry proceeded to do so and he's been a hitting "fool" since. This is the same Harry Walker who delivered the hit to center field in the final game of the Red Sox-Card World Series on which Enos Slaughter made his famous dash from first to the plate with what proved to be the winning run.

After tonight's game with the Phillies the Braves rest Thursday for their big twin bill with the Dodgers on the Friday holiday afternoon. A single day game Saturday with the Pirates Sunday. Chapman ordered Phil Mast walked in the big third to get Torgeson. Torgy responded by singling to center driving in a run. Lee Handley came up with a gem of a play in the first off Connie Ryan. The latter slashed a wicked grounder to Lee's left. He made a magnificent gloved-hand stop and got Connie at first. Mast showed some heads-up ball in the second when he caught Lee Handley napping off first. Fred Schmidt, who replaced Ken Ruffensberger in the third, was part of Northey-Walker (Card-Phil) deal, the right-hander coming from St. Louis.

Hogan, Locke Lift Goodall Lid

By BILL GRIMES

The sixth $10,000 Goodall Invitation Round Robin championship which starts tomorrow afternoon at Charles River Country Club will get off to a flying start. Little Ben Hogan, the country's outstanding player, and Bobby Locke, the South African, battle in the opening round. The 16 Goodall contestants play in foursomes. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., and Lew Worsham, pro at the Oakmont Country Club of Pittsburgh, were drawn to play with Hogan and Locke in the first round.

Hogan was the big money winner of the winter circuit. He is also the defending champion, having regained his "Goodall" title a year ago at the Winged Foot Golf Club.

Locke has been in this country less than two months, but has topped fields in three major tournaments, the Carolina and Houston opens, and the Philadelphia Enquirer classic.

A year ago, the British scribes who came over here with Dick Burton, then the open champion of Britain, were loud in their praises of Locke. They claimed he was the world's best golfer. After losing 14 out of 17 matches to Locke in South Africa last winter, Slammin' Sam Snead is satisfied that the stylist from the Transvaal is a serious threat in any championship.

Little Ben will be gunning for Locke. At the end of two rounds in Philadelphia last week, Hogan was leading the field, which played for a $15,000 purse, by a margin of five strokes. The experts predicted that the Texan would win going away. They pointed out that Ben was at the peak of his game, for in the opening round the Texan has established a new record for the Cedarbrook course.

The weather conditions on Sunday were bad, fog, rain and a heavy course. Well, in the third round, Hogan blew himself to a 77. Locke posted a one-under-par 70. Then in the final round, Hogan shot a two-over-par 73, but Locke duplicated his morning round and won the top money by five strokes over Ben, who finished fourth.

The Philadelphia defeat is still fresh in Hogan's mind. He will be out to square the Locke account.

The first foursome off tomorrow will be Vic Ghezzi, George Schoups, Jimmy Demaret and Bob Hamilton. On their recent performances, Demaret should have the edge, if he's in a serious mood. Lloyd Mangrum, Ellsworth Vines, "Jug" McSpaden and Herman Kelsier will follow the first foursome. Then will come Sam Snead, Herman Kelsier, Ed Oliver and Lawson Little.

The "Goodall" field will play five rounds, during which each contestant will engage in 15 matches. The scoring is a plus and minus system, according to the standings of each match at the end of 18 holes. The top money prize will be $2000, and the player winding up in the cellar will receive $250. The low medal round will earn that player an extra $200, and there will be $100 in cash money for the second low medal.

On tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, there will be only one round per day but, on Sunday, the field will make a double loop.

Ouimet, Bishop Advance in Britain

By THOMAS C. WATSON

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, May 28 (INS)—Five Americans advanced through forenoon second round competition and played at tennoon third round matches in the British Amateur Golf Championship today. The five survivors joined six other players from the United States who previously had moved into the third round and also went into action today.

Bing Crosby Gets Top Billing Today In Goodall Tuneup

Bing Crosby gets top billing today at the Charles River Country Club. He will play with Jimmy Demaret, one of the best pros in the business, Elmer L. Ward, a former New England amateur champion, and Frank Craven in the Pro-Member tourney, which will be a tune-up for the 6th Goodall Invitation Round Robin championship. . . . The Crosby-Demaret-Craven foursome tee off at 2:30. It will attract most of the gallery and promises to be a great show.

The Pro-Member events get underway at 1:30 from the first and 10th tees. The best points of vantage are the second green, which is a short walk from the 3d and 6th tees, the 5th green, and back of the 13th green, from where the gallery can watch the field come to that green, play the short 14th hole and drive off the 15th tee. . . . Lloyd Mangrum, the U.S. Open champion; Sam Snead, who is the British open title holder, and Ellsworth Vines, holder of Bay State Open title, made a loop around Charles River yesterday. . . . The other Goodall contestants to work out were Harold "Jug" McSpaden and Ben Hogan.

Herman Kelsier, Herman Barron and Cary Middlecoff passed up Charles River to play a couple of rounds at the Oak Hill Country Club, where they will try to qualify for the U.S. Open championship next Monday.

This morning's second round winners:

Skee Riegel, Glendale, Cal., defeated George Hamer, Columbus, Ga., 6 and 5.

Bob Sweeney, American-born London resident, defeated Fred Kammer, Jr., Detroit, 5 and 3.

Francis Ouimet, Boston, defeated O. M. Wynn, England, 5 and 4.

Ellis Knowles, Rye, N. Y., defeated Keith Bridson, Grand Forks, N. D., 3 and 2.

Leonard Martin, Rye, N. Y., advanced by default.

Ouimet's victory was really impressive, for the slender, 53-year-old veteran and captain of the Walker Cup team had not been expected to move ahead with such a display of golf. Calm and apparently not minding the pressure of tournament play a bit, Ouimet was hitting the ball like a real title threat in his one-sided win.

Ted Bishop of Boston, U. S. amateur champion, moved up a step by winning in the third round from Gerald Owens of Ireland, 3 and 1.

Bishop shot a 41 and Owen a 43 to the turn, where they stood all square, but Bishop finally won it on the 17th despite ragged golf that included a seven on the 12th and a six on the 14th.

Bishop went two up on the 10th and 11th, followed with his zooming seven, won the next hole, dropped the 14th, halved one and took the 16th and 17th with easy pars for the win.

Highlights of Bishop's victory came on the first hole, where Owens missed a nine-inch putt for a half and blew it with a six, on the 12th, where Bishop sacrificed two shots hacking his way out of the heather and wound up with that seven on the 17th.

On the latter hole, a par four, Owens went to pieces and took four wild shots to get on the green while Bishop played a regulation.

In another third round match, Bud Ward of Spokane, Wash., twice holder of the U. S. crown, eliminated Ed Hamilton, Scottish champion, 4 and 3.

Willie Turnesa, of White Plains, N. Y., defeated D. M. Wright, of Scotland, 5 and 4, to make it three in a row for the United States in third-round competition.

Laddie Lucas, of the British Walker Cup forces, handed the United States a third-round upset by defeating Staff Sgt. Charles Jennings, of Medford, N. J., who is stationed with the U. S. Army in Germany.

The Britisher turned back Jennings in a tough battle by one up.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., safely advanced through the third round with a nip-and-tuck one up victory over George Morgan, of Scotland.

Stranahan and Morgan started their match with an argument that still was unsettled as they left the first green.

With three shots played, Morgan holed a three-foot putt, then knocked in Stranahan's ball from a foot away with the backing of his putter, indicating a concession for a half.

Stranahan insisted that inasmuch as he personally had played only three shots he was the winner of the hole, and a five-minute argument ensued. Rule books were consulted, and it was finally ruled that the hole was halved in fours.

Cubs Regain Loop Lead As 'Bums' Drop Giants

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—The Cubs moved into the National League lead when they handed the Cardinals their first night defeat of the season, 10-3, as the Giants lost to the Dodgers, 7-3. The victory put the Cubs a half game up on the Giants and Dodgers, with the Giants resting in second place four percentage points ahead of the Brooks.

Lefty Bob Chipman gave up 11 scattered hits to the Redbirds for his fourth victory, his third over the Cards.

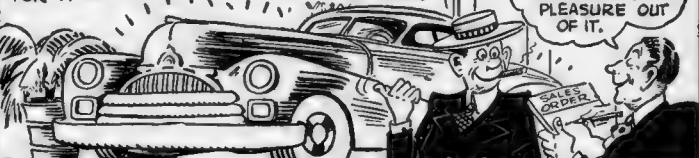

Ralph Brancica, a native New Yorker, made the Giants' return to the Polo Grounds a sad one when he held them to seven hits and whiffed 10 as the Brooks got to Lefty Dave Koslo for five runs in the first three innings to win handily. A crowd of 51,780 cash customers, the largest gathering ever to witness a National League night game, attended.

Washington snapped a five game losing streak, overcoming a 4-0 deficit to defeat the Yankees, 5-4. The American League leading Detroit Tigers gained revenge on Bobby Feller for his 6-0 shutout over them in Cleveland last month when they whipped the Indians' fireballer, 4-2, in Detroit to increase their first place lead over the Yankees to four games.

Lawrence Coach Added to Sandlot Selection Board

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

The addition of Mark H. Devlin, Lawrence High School coach, to the advisory board for the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser sandlot baseball try-outs at O'Sullivan Park, Lawrence, Thursday, June 5, has brought rounds of applause from his admirers in the Mill City.

Devlin will be a great asset to the tournament in determining the two best ball players in the Lawrence-Lowell-Haverhill area.

The best boys from that area will play in the New England final July 29 at Fenway Park with boys from 13 other cities. The final game of the Hearst tournament will be conducted as part of a Red Sox-Cleveland Indians doubleheader.

The best boys in the Fenway Park game will then be tendered a seven day trip to New York for the national final over which Babe Ruth and Rabbit Maranville will preside.

Devlin attended Lawrence High, St. John's Prep and Holy Cross where he was a star athlete. Football fans remember the time when he, as an HC sophomore, scored a touchdown and kicked a field goal to beat Boston College.

"We have some great ball players in this area," said Devlin. "I am sure that there will be more than 200 boys on hand for the O'Sullivan Park baseball session. The boys we select will be good ones. They will give a good account of themselves in the Fenway Park game."

The minimum age limit for boys competing in trials is 15 years of age, the maximum is 18. Any boy who has not reached his 19th birthday by June 1, 1947, will be eligible to compete.

Russell, Moses Spark Red Sox Out of Slump

By HERB FINNEGAN

PHILADELPHIA, May 28—Now why in the world have Wally Moses and Rip Russell been rusticated on the bench? As the Red Sox sought their second straight victory over the A's today (Ferriss vs. Flores), 36-year-old Moses was batting .467, and 31-year-old Russell had a firm grip, protem, on the third base job he split with Mike Higgins last year.

Youth must be served, the saying goes. But it is to be noted that youths Eddie Pellagrini and Sam Mele were removed from the lineup after the Sox dropped four straight in New York. They were playing no worse than the others; but kids always have to give way when things go wrong.

Doerr and DiMaggio and York can go hitless week in and week out, but they've hit before, so they stay in the lineup while the rookies fade into the dugout.

And, so it was that Russell and Moses reappeared in the lineup. Now nobody expects them to play day-in and day-out the rest of the season. Russell has an aching back that kicks up occasionally, and Moses spends his idle moments in the whirlpool bath relieving his sciatica.

They won't be regulars long. Rumor persists that Vern Stephens will land in the Red Sox ranks next week when the Sox are in St. Louis (trading deadline June 15), while Mele eventually will return to right field.

But for emergency men, you'll find none better than Moses and Russell.

Steve O'Neill was waiting for Cronin to release Moses, May 14, so he could pick him up. There's lots of baseball left in his sinewy frame.

"I'd have had Russell on third base all season," said the A's Earl Mack, not knowing of Russell's ailment. "He's one of the greatest clutch hitters I've ever seen, and his hands remind me of steam-shovels."

Russell was the particular object of the Sox affections after the game. "Fifth-inning" they were calling him with reason.

Russell made six home runs last year. Five of them came in the fifth inning. So when he appeared at the plate in the fifth inning last night with Williams and Doerr aboard, it was no surprise to his teammates to see him loft a home run into the left field upper deck. They were come to expect it of him.

It was the game-winning blow, giving the Sox a 4-2 lead which Earl Johnson held to the end.

The good-natured outpaw. Incidentally, pitched his best ball of the year after relieving starter Tommy Fine with one out, two runs over, and Joost on second in the fourth. He gave only one hit, that a pinch single by Mike Guerra when two were out in the ninth.

Moses? Simply wonderful. The old gaffer, who made four hits in one World Series game last fall, added three hits to his collection, one of them driving in Russell with the first run of the game.

Wally was a nervous person at Sarasota when he saw Mele, Layden, Goodman added to the 1946 collection of Culberson, McBride, Metkovich and himself. He was a nervous person on May 14 when Cronin made his last cut in the squad.

But he's feeling chipper these days, thanks, and Cronin is thankful that he kept him—and Russell.

deserves a round of applause for the grand job he has performed with his boys in the lower division of the Catholic League standings.

St. Clement's has climbed into a three-way deadlock for top place but the necessary abbreviation of the campaign will hinder the chances of the Somerville club qualifying for the title play.

The rise to the top of the standings has been a notable accomplishment for the team. But the record of the past two seasons—which features two victories over Keith Academy's Jackie Campbell last spring; a triumph over Somerville's Tom Gallagher and then another over Cathedral's John Stevens this year—screams of St. Clement's sound baseball play.

Coach Cassell had little in the line of veteran material at the start of this season but he has stressed such a solid game that the "rookies" have come through in grand style.

And now, such players as Capt. Gene Driscoll, outfielder, Bobby Boston, third baseman and pitcher, and Tommy Cassell, catcher, will bear plenty of consideration in selection for All League honors. Driscoll has been hitting the ball to a merry 385; Boston's versatility has been one of the most pleasant turns in the schedule this season; Cassell's big .420 average has been one of the mainstays of the club.

The remainder of the St. Clement's club has Frank DePinto and either Joe Lonergan or Joe Higgins in the outfield; Gus Colbert at first; Bill Colbert at second; Buddie Donovan at short and Jackie McKinnon at third. McKinnon and pitcher Boston alternate between the hot corner and the mound.

Keith Academy's Jackie Campbell, pitching ace of the state champions last spring, has chalked up four victories as a twirler on the Notre Dame nine . . . He beat Purdue (4-3) in his most recent start . . . His former teammates, picking up a friendly rivalry with their Western rivals, Holyoke, will complete a two game series with that club Friday afternoon.

A match race will settle the sixth place in the list of entries for the 220-yard run in the New England track championships scheduled for Newton, June 14 . . . Paul Halpin, Quincy, and John Shea, Malden, will meet at the Fargo Building track to decide the only opening . . . The winner will join Fred Bailey, Belmont; Charlie Durakis, Camb. Latin; Bill Jenkins, Jamaica Plain; Jim Nawn, St. John's (D), and Ed Harris, Lynn English, as the Mass. candidates.

Two shifts have been noted in football coaching ranks effective next fall . . . Marty Donovan, Salem Army veteran, has hooked up with Tom O'Connor as an assistant at Medford . . . Dick Moynihan has returned to Central Catholic of Lawrence, leaving his post at Newburyport . . . Moynihan left Central in 1944.

Catholic school championships at St. John's of Danvers have attracted seven entries to date with the host team an early favorite to take over the title . . . Other entries list B. C. High, Lawrence Central, Malden Catholic, St. Mary's of Waltham, Assumption of Worcester and St. Joseph's.

ELI OARSMEN OFF FOR CAMP

NEW HAVEN, Ct., May 28 (AP)—Forty-three Yale oarsmen and three coaches left here today to set up a training camp at Gale's Ferry in Leyard for the Thomas River Regatta with Harvard on June 13.

The Gale's Ferry crew camp has been unoccupied for six years, the last time Thomas River races having been rowed in 1941.

The Harvard crew plans to take over its headquarters at Red Top, near Gale's Ferry, next week.

Angler Urges Some of Fish Be Put Back

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

The weatherman must be a conservationist. Because of the cold, wet days endured by local trout fishermen most of this spring, the sport has been extremely slow and limit catches have been kept to a minimum—if any! We are sorry that the season has been so sad to date; however, we feel that altogether too many anglers go forth with the hope of taking their limits and this is not a healthy condition for future fishing.

Why not try throwing back some of your fish? After all, the real thrill lies in hooking 'em, and few anglers eat all the fish they catch.

A friend of ours—a dyed-in-the-wool angling expert—who is known as the Old Timer, has often said: "I don't care if I fish day and night, without landing a single specimen. Of course, I do enjoy taking one now and then—but it seems to me that there's more to fishing than seeing how many you can get. And a day in the outdoors, on the banks of a nice stream or pond, is the best relaxation and recreation in the world."

While on this subject, we believe it's high time that certain alleged "sportsmen" studied up on the fishing rules and regulations . . . We had a letter from a chap recently in which he stated that he had just caught 13 trout, "whipped from a Massachusetts stream" . . . We remind this embryonic Izak Walton—and others of his ilk—that the daily bag limit in this state is TWELVE, the legal length, 6 inches . . . In the Deerfield and Millers rivers, and all great ponds, the daily limit is six, the minimum length, 9 inches.

On some of our other fresh water species, we find the daily bag on white perch, 15; length 12 inches; while the bag on yellow perch is 20, but no length limit . . . The latter also applies to calico bass, quite plentiful in many sections.

ANGLING ANGLERS: Here's an item from the current issue of The Salt Water Sportsman, which should interest striped fishermen: According to Dr. Daniel Merriman, of Yale University and a famed authority on this species, the striped bass which were hatched in 1945 will begin to migrate along the coast this year, and this season's class should be one of the largest in history . . . Although these bass will be only about nine or ten inches in length, they indicate better fishing for the future. The first White Marlin caught since before the war, measuring five feet and weighing 30 pounds, was hooked off Hamilton, Bermuda, recently. A Wahoo, hitting 70 pounds, was also taken there.

And still more fishing derbies continue to rear their heads. Latest is the Montauk, L. I., Striper-stakes, from May 1 to Nov. 1.

Fenway's Lights Ranks With Yankee Stadium's

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., May 28—John E. Bock, engineer in the General Electric Lighting Division here, never was a pitcher, but he has just finished throwing 1120 perfect strikes in Boston's Fenway Park. He's far from a Tex Huggson, but his offerings had to be high, low, inside and outside, and as fast as the speed of light. To make things still tougher, his "fast ones" had to be served up not from the mound but all the way from Schenectady by remote control.

In a departure from an old-trial-and-error method, Bock has just finished scientifically aiming the 1120 new General Electric sports floodlights that will rank Fenway Park with New York's Yankee Stadium as the two brightest-lighted ball parks in the world.

Taking a little more time than the average pitcher, Bock delivered his assortment by first determining the spot on the playing field where each light beam should hit and then computing the exact angle, right or left, up or down, at which each beam will hit its designated spot.

These vertical and horizontal angles for each floodlight were then plotted on a master lighting chart, for use as a guide to workmen mounting the floodlights. Since each floodlight has calibrated scales, indicating horizontal and vertical position, the task of adjusting the lights is made short and simple.

Frend Doing Great Job

By DAVE WILSON

To your envy's way of reckoning, Bob Frend, Suffolk Downs starter, is entitled to take a few bows for his outstanding work. The genial Texan has not only dispatched the starting fields of thoroughbreds in faultless style, but he has saved bettors many thousands of dollars by last-minute scratching of sore and injured horses.

Incidentally, the failure of the stewards to recognize and scratch sore horses is largely responsible for the low per centage of winning favorites at Suffolk Downs.

One pleasing bit of news coming out of Rhode Island is that saliva specimen will be delivered direct to the chemist from Narragansett Park in an armored truck. Under this system, it will be practically impossible to switch or change specimen, something that was possible under the old system.

Torrance Melrose, the well known Cleveland sportsman who is a candidate to succeed Lee O'Donnell as president of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, sends word that he is coming on from Las Vegas, Nev., to attend the Narragansett Park meeting.

Wonder if Suffolk Downs stewards could have heard persistent rumors to the effect that the grooms and exercise boys are planning to stage a sympathy strike if the groom involved in the Sun Flame stimulation case is suspended? . . . It may have no bearing on the matter whatsoever, but the ruling promised by the stewards for last Friday on the case has failed to put in its appearance; lending credence to other rumors that the stewards are withholding action until sometime Saturday night after the last race at the current meeting has been run.
